But New York Shows Greatest Per Capita Increase—Georgia Takes 14th Place in List.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The population of continental United States on the basis of official preliminary census figures is 122,728,873.

This figure was compiled given from official announcements by Associated Press bureaus by census supervisors in the various states after completing the enumeration which began April 2.

Only one district in the United States—in Clearfield county, Pennsylvania—was incomplete, but a preliminary estimate tonight by the census supervisor placed its population at 1,319.

The total figure for the United States' population is, however, subject to revision in the census bureau's official announcement which is not expected for another week or more.

Territories of the United States and outlying possessions, not included in the continental United States total being the nation's grand total of population to 137,501,561. This figure includes an estimate for the Philippine islands whose census is controlled by the insular government which has not made an enumeration for several years.

Continental United States had 105,710,620 people ten years ago, while the nation with its outlying possessions totaled 117,559,395.

California had the largest rate of growth of any state, but was exceeded by New York in numerical increase. California's rate of growth was 64.6 per cent and her numerical increase was 2,215,421. New York's rate was 21.4 per cent and her numerical increase was 2,224,328.

Florida, second to California in increase percentage, rated a 51.4 per cent growth, with a numerical gain of 497,490. New Jersey, third in increase, added 26.8 per cent, a numerical gain of 846,068.

Montana was the only state to show decrease—2.8 per cent loss, the numerical decline being 15,370.

In 1920 census, three states, Mississippi, Vermont and Nevada showed decreases in population. Arizona had the largest increase of that census, with 63.5 per cent.

Mencken's Surrender
Forseen by Nathan

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(UN)—Henry L. Mencken's plan to marry was not a surprise to George Jean Nathan, formerly associated with Mencken in publishing the American Mercury. Nathan said here today.

"I am not surprised," Nathan commented. "I foresaw his marriage three years ago."

"You must remember Henry is approaching 50—and age changes and mellowing earlier opinions. Consistency is unimportant. Mencken and I both used to believe in the existence of Santa Claus and the wisdom of the president of the United States, but the passing years changed all that."

Nathan plans to proceed to the United States aboard the liner Europa on Thursday. He said he was going back to "give Henry some serious advice about the marriage question."

Nathan, noted as a writer and dramatic critic, has been seen frequently here in company with Lillian Gish, the actress.

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Dorothy Dell Goff, 17-year-old New Orleans blonde, tonight was selected beauty queen of the universe in the final event of the international pageant of pulchritude here.

City Editor Dead

Robert Moran, for more than 20 years night city editor of The Constitution, who passed away Tuesday afternoon. Known to thousands of friends as "Bob," he had been ill only a few weeks and his death was entirely unexpected.

'BOB' MORAN DIES
IN HOSPITAL HERE

Constitution Night City Editor for 20 Years Passes After Brief Illness

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Robert Moran, night city editor of The Constitution, died Tuesday afternoon at a local sanitarium after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Moran was stricken during the week of excessive heat some four or five weeks ago and, while he recovered sufficiently to return to his duties on the paper, he never fully regained his health.

On Monday he was taken to the sanitarium in the hope that with proper care and rest he would be restored to health. He suffered a heart attack early Tuesday morning, however, and the end came a little after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"Bob" Moran was sports editor of The Constitution for a time and had been night city editor for more than twenty years, with the exception of one period of two years during which he was one of the best known newspapermen in the country.

Always Worked on Constitution.

Born on December 31, 1883, he was 46 years old when he died, and had served on The Constitution ever since he graduated in his early twenties from the University of Georgia.

His father was the late P. J. Moran, who joined the editorial staff of The Constitution in the early seventies. He also, at the time of his death, some 20 years ago or more, was night city editor. His first wife, nothing but a sister of J. R. Holliday, foreign advertising manager of the paper.

Mr. Moran married Mrs. Lella Randall, some ten years ago. Mrs. Moran died on March 30, 1929.

Funeral services will be held at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, with the Rev. Father J. V. Abbott officiating. Interment will take place in Oakland cemetery.

Known All Over Nation.

It is doubtful if any Atlanta newspaperman had more friends in the profession, in all parts of the country, than Bob Moran. Hundreds of reporters who later occupied important positions on leading newspapers in all parts of the world, received their first practical training under Bob Moran.

He was a strict mentor, but deep in his heart he possessed an understanding kindness that endeared him to everyone who associated with him long enough to really know him.

In his earlier days as a newspaperman, he won wide recognition by his theatrical criticism. He was always deeply interested in the stage and was a mine of information about personalities and events of the old days in the theater world. Oldtime advance agents for every form of entertainment from Shakespeare and opera to the circus, knew Bob Moran better than any other individual in Atlanta. He was always their friend.

For 20 years and more, Bob has been the adviser and helper for every

KANSAS GOVERNOR
IS LOSING RACE
FOR RENOMINATION

Reed Is Behind Young Ex-Soldier—Virginia Again Nominates Democrats Loyal in 1928.

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Senator Henry J. Allen, former Wichita publisher and strong supporter of the Hoover administration gained a big lead for the republican senatorial nomination by early returns tonight from the Kansas primaries, but his close friend and political ally, Governor Clyde M. Reed, was running behind in his contest for renomination.

Frank (Chief) Hauke, young World War veteran with a strong personal following and the support of all the enemies of the Reed administration, took the lead over the governor in the first returns and held it tenaciously, although the contest appeared close.

Returns from 526 precincts of the 2,668 in the state gave Hauke a lead of 11,264 over the governor. With the opposition vote split three ways, Senator Allen, who seeks to return to Washington for the unexpired portion of the term to which he was appointed by Governor Reed when Senator Charles Curtis became vice president, was having an easy time of it.

The vote for governor: Hauke 42,222; Reed 30,358. For senator: 386 precincts: Allen 20,380; Ralph Snyder 10,125; Congressman W. H. Sproul, 8,965; James F. Getty 5,943.

The democratic vote was normally light for an off year primary. For the democratic gubernatorial nomination Harry H. Woodring, of Needles, like Hauke a former state commander of the American Legion, was leading Stella B. Haines, of Garnett, state representative. Returns from 76 precincts gave Woodring 6,222, Bowman 3,724.

In 426 precincts the vote for the democratic senatorial nomination was: George McGill, Wichita, 4,446; Charles Stephens, Columbus, 4,446; Haines, 4,446; and a fourth, 4,446.

Reed, with his partner, W. A. Goode, went to Minsk's shop about noon Monday where they had been summoned by Harry Minsk, brother of Jake, who had told the police that Jake threatened him.

The indictment was returned after several witnesses had been heard by the grand jury, among them being A. L. Bandy, 1278 Morningside drive, who was a witness to the shooting.

Hauke, with his partner, W. A. Goode, went to Minsk's shop about noon Monday where they had been summoned by Harry Minsk, brother of Jake, who had told the police that Jake threatened him.

Representatives Homer Hoch, fourth district; James G. Strong, fifth district; and Clifford B. Haines, of Augusta, state representative, a republican.

Other democratic candidates for congress nominated without opposition are Chauncey B. Little, former congressman, second district; Earl M. Knight, third district; Mac Clausen, fourth district; and Clyde Short, fifth district.

VIRGINIA VOTES FOR LOYAL DEMOCRATS.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Judge Howard M. Alexander, apparently was the democratic nominee for congress from the eighth district tonight, while Thomas G. Burch, republican, was leading over Joseph Whitehead, incumbent, in the fifth district and Joseph T. Deal had clinched the nomination in the second.

With 127 precincts reported out of a total of 154 in the eighth district, Judge Smith, who relinquished his position as circuit judge to enter the congressional primary, had a lead of 5,855 over Ball's 3,723. Ball, and Keith, who had 3,721, were running neck and neck, while Crandall Mackey had 921 and E. H. DeLamette 255.

Prohibition has been made the principal issue in the eighth district campaign. Senator Ball is the only one of the five candidates who made a "bone dry" campaign, and was the only one who was declared "satisfactory" by the Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Virginia Anti-Slavery League.

Joseph T. Deal, former democratic congressman who was defeated by Menckens Lankford in the republican landslide in 1928, will oppose Lankford again this fall, having overwhelmed his two opponents, Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain and Wilson W. Vellines, in almost complete returns. With only four of the 126 precincts of the second district lacking Deal had 6,512 votes. Mrs. Fain had 1,855 and Vellines 1,745.

Thomas G. Burch, loyal candidate, continued to increase his lead over Joseph Whitehead, the incumbent, in the fifth district, as the returns came in. One hundred and thirty-eight precincts out of the total of 214 gave Burch 9,538 votes and Whitehead 5,193.

J. E. JONES LEADS IN WEST VIRGINIA.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—(AP)—James Ellwood Jones had a lead of 3 to 1 over Judge Harry Shaw and former Congressman Benjamin L. Rosenbloom for the republican

Candidates Drop Personalities for Plans
By Which To Meet State's Financial CrisisHow Candidates Would Solve
State's Financial Problem

George H. Carswell—By reallocating for a period of one year, all income from the sale of automobile license tags, thus providing approximately $5,000,000 to be applied to back due appropriations, but still leaving in the neighborhood of $14,000,000 for the highway department.

John N. Holder—By readjusting the present income and sales taxes and by ferretting out for taxation all invisible property, such as notes, stocks and bonds.

James A. Perry—By decreasing road construction, after all contracts now outstanding have been fully completed, to such an amount as is necessary to pay the state's debts within a reasonable time. We can do this in short time and it is a sacrifice that is necessary.

E. D. Rivers—A promise upon his return to Atlanta within the next few days to outline the "logical remedy" for the state's ills.

Richard B. Russell—By anticipating rentals on the state's Western and Atlantic and Henry Grady hotel properties, to pay such back due obligations as the new income and sales taxes will not take care of.

Lagging Interest of Voters in Politics Suddenly Comes to Life Throughout State.

BY FRANCIS W. CLARKE.

The five candidates for governor, confronted with convincing proof that the apathy of the voters of the state has been the result of too many personalities and too few definite plans for the remedying of distressing conditions in the state government, Tuesday made a kaleidoscopic change in their various addresses.

The public reaction to the demand for specific outlining of methods whereby back due appropriations and the state's indebtedness could be met, had resulted by Tuesday night in four of the candidates announcing as many different plans, with the fifth candidate stating that he would do so within a few days.

Reports from all parts of the state show a remarkable change on the part of the voters since Sunday, when George H. Carswell announced a plan to put the state on its feet financially. From a condition of complete apathy, the voters crystallized into sudden interest centered on the question of the best way to solve the state's financial problem. It is probably that no more rapid or complete political metamorphosis has ever before taken place in Georgia.

Plans Discussed.

As a result, the addresses delivered Monday and Tuesday by the five candidates for governor lacked to a great extent, the personal attacks which have so far during the campaign, been the main feature of these addresses, and were practically entirely devoted to the advancing of individual plans and criticism of the suggested plans of opponents.

The plan suggested by Carswell of reallocating the income from the sale of automobile license tags from the highway board to the paying up of past due accounts, came in for severe criticism at the hands especially of John N. Holder, a former leader of the highway board, and Richard B. Russell, Jr., speaker of the house of representatives, who decried the effort to "strip the highway department of any of its badly needed funds."

Carswell replied by claiming that his plan constituted practically the same method pursued by Colonel Sam Tate in straightening out the finances of the highway department, the only difference being that for 10 months all of the board's income was used for paying debts, while his plan to get the state itself out of debt would leave the highway department more than two-thirds of its revenue, and would amount for the one year of $14,000,000.

Russell, in opposing the Carswell plan, took the position that the new income and sales taxes would go far

Candidates End
Joint Meetings;
'Apathy' Blamed

Discontinuance of a series of 12 joint meetings by candidates for the legislature from Fulton county was announced Tuesday night at a rally in the College Park city hall. Apparently the apathy of the general public was the reason.

Small crowds have greeted the 12 legislative candidates at each of three scheduled rallies and less than 30 persons, exclusive of workers and candidates, attended Tuesday night's session in spite of a determined effort to get out the voters.

Announcement of the agreement was made by Bond Almond, candidate to succeed Dr. George Brown. Mr. Almond said that business conditions and the depression apparently have caused a lack of interest in the legislative race, in spite of the fact that the 1931 session will have to meet some big problems and will be one of the most important general assemblies in years.

Other candidates who made five-minute talks Tuesday night were Virgil Adams, George Eckford and Swift Tyler, to succeed Dr. Brown; M. G. Hicks, Don K. Johnston, Luther Stitt and J. O. Wood, to succeed Mr. Stitt, and Johnny J. Jones, W. G. McRae, Ezra Phillips and Jesse Simmons, to succeed Miss Besie Kempton.

The candidates are practically as one on the platform of causing election of the municipal court judges by the people instead of nomination by the superior court judges. Other proposals advanced include consolidation of the offices of tax receiver and tax collector of Fulton county, and introduction of civil service for county employees.

W. S. Northcutt spoke for Judge John D. Humphries, who is seeking reelection to Fulton superior court. Mr. Northcutt, opponent of Judge Humphries, spoke in behalf of his own candidacy.

Mr. Northcutt said that Judge Humphries is running on his record, and that he is one of the outstanding forces for law and order in the state.

Mr. Jordan charged that he has been made the subject of fabrication and falsehoods, and said that efforts have been made to get him out of the race without avail.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, John and Avery Winn. Funeral arrangements, which are in charge of Atway and Lowndes, have not been completed.

CITY POLICEMAN
HELD FOR MURDER

O. C. Hewell Indicted by Grand Jury in Shooting of Jake Minsk, Butcher.

Call Officer O. C. Hewell, who Monday shot and killed Jake Minsk, butcher, at 324 Deatur street, when it was alleged Minsk threatened him with a heavy meat knife, Tuesday was indicted by the grand jury on charge of murder. A bench warrant directing that the policeman be arrested and held without bond was issued immediately on return of the indictment.

The indictment was returned after several witnesses had been heard by the grand jury, among them being A. L. Bandy, 1278 Morningside drive, who was a witness to the shooting.

Hauke, with his partner, W. A. Goode, went to Minsk's shop about noon Monday where they had been summoned by Harry Minsk, brother of Jake, who had told the police that Jake threatened him.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD BOY
DROWNS IN 3-FOOT
POOL AT PIEDMONT

Death Takes Young Harry Biggers While His Mother, Critically Ill, Asks About Him.

Almost at the same moment that his mother, lying dangerously ill at a local hospital, was inquiring anxiously as to the welfare of him and her three other small children, 5-year-old Harry Biggers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Biggers, of 74 Alexander street, N. W., late Tuesday afternoon was lying lifeless at the bottom of the small swimming pool at Piedmont park.

Where he, his sister, Mary, 10, and their aunt, Mrs. John H. Dillard, of 889 Ponce de Leon place, had gone to escape the hot weather.

The child's grandmother and Miss Berta Dougherty, of 85 Alexander street, had driven to the hospital Tuesday afternoon to visit Mrs. Biggers, whose condition is said to be critical.

According to Miss Dougherty, Mary and Harry were with Mrs. Dillard, who was to take them to Piedmont park for a swim.

Meantime, G. M. Loehr, of 212 Montgomery street, Decatur, walking about with two of his own children in the northern part of the small pool, where the water is no more than 3 feet deep, stepped upon a body, and when it did not move, dived beneath the surface and investigated.

He summoned Henry Clay, lifeguard, who, with John A. White, chairman of the park committee in council, who was on the scene, and Policeman Max Lonsberg, attempted to resuscitate the small boy by prone pressure method.

Mrs. Dillard, the aunt, was hysterical when she discovered that her little nephew had been found apparently drowned. She said she could not have been under water more than a few minutes, as Mary, his 10-year-old sister, had been seen holding his hand, and she had seen him being pulled out of the water.

SPECIAL SESSION
RUMORED AGAIN
AROUND CAPITOL

Hardman Silent, But Politicians Say That Extra Meeting Plan Has Not Been Abandoned.

TAX REVISION BODY
FORMED AT MACON

"Complete Revision of Fiscal and Tax System" Is Aim of Group Headed by Miller Bell.

A double-barreled survey of Georgia's financial and taxation problems will get under way at the state capitol this morning, Governor L. G. Hardman announced Tuesday in making public the personnel of experts who have been employed to do the work for the next three months.

The Hardman announcement of the employment of experts to study the state's affairs and recommend a plan to relieve the financial crisis the state is facing was followed by announcement of the organization in Macon of the Georgia Tax Revision Association with Miller S. Bell, Milledgeville, banker, as president. Ernest Camp, Monroe newspaperman, was elected secretary of the association and will establish an office in Atlanta immediately. An executive committee of 13 members, named at Macon Tuesday, will meet here for further action next Tuesday.

G. P. Miller, financial and organization expert, a member of the New York firm of Seagles, Miller and Company, and E. W. Carr, an assistant, will begin an investigation of the state's financial and organization problems and Professor Harvey L. Lutz, Princeton University economist, will devote his time to a study of the taxation problem. Mr. Lutz attended the Macon conference of Georgia business leaders Tuesday and made a brief address.

Announcement of the employment of the New York firm and of Professor Lutz, coupled with the indorsement of their employment by the Macon conference, was readily associated with new rumors of a special session of the legislature which, it is believed, official circles, will be called upon the filing of the Lutz and Miller reports.

Hardman Reticent.

Governor Hardman is reticent on the subject of a special session but politicians are saying for him he has not abandoned his intention to have the lawmakers convened before the regular session next summer.

Lutz, at Macon, advocated sharp changes in the present tax system, stressing, particularly, the importance of turning to intangibles in order to relieve real estate. In his opening statement to the Macon group, which had been summoned by Miller S. Bell, of Milledgeville, to consider the state's tax problem and its effect upon state institutions at this time, declared that any political angle or attempt in connection with a statewide organization of taxpayers would be fatal. He declared the Macon association could be of great assistance to the legislature and the state administration in making investigations and advising as to the curtailment of unnecessary expenditures. Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the board of directors of the First National bank, and businessmen are ready man of the committee on principles which adopted a report providing for the following activities of the organization:

Organization's Activities.

1. A complete and adequate survey of the state's financial and tax situation.
2. Wiping out the embarrassing and humiliating deficit in the state treasury.
3. Raising revenue that will be adequate to support the institutions of the state and equalizing the burden of taxation.
4. Revising and reconstructing the state system of tax collection and tax enforcement.
5. Reforming the system of county and municipal taxation to bring about greater uniformity and fix a maximum local tax.
6. A comprehensive budget system for operation of the state government to bring about an equal distribution of state finances and prevent discriminations.

The report read by Mr. Glenn declared that a complete revision of the state's tax system is imperative. The present tax system has proven a complete failure, providing revenue that is inadequate, penalizing business, retarding industry, destroying agriculture and driving capital out of the state, the report pointed out.

Business interests are partly to blame for the present situation by following a policy that sought only selfish interests, the report said. This has proven to be a mistaken attitude, and business men are ready now to co-operate in the service of the state and the people, it continued.

Declaration of Principles.

A declaration of principles, unanimously adopted at the Macon meeting, follows:

"The complete revision of Georgia's fiscal and tax system is an imperative necessity. The antiquated general property tax levied at a uniform rate upon all classes of property, which for half a century has been the chief reliance for raising the state's revenue, has proved a complete failure here as it has elsewhere it has been tried.

"Under it sufficient revenue cannot be raised to support the state government and the public institutions. It distributes the burden of taxation most unequally and unjustly, imposing the greatest burden upon those who are least able to bear it.

"It has well been described as 'a tax upon ignorance and honesty.' Forced by the necessity of raising additional revenue to meet the growing demands upon the state government, the legislature has supplemented the general property tax with an increasing number of special taxes on business and occupations, some of which are as unequal and unjust in their operation as is the general property tax itself.

"At its last session the general assembly enacted a net income tax and a tax on gross receipts. The multiplication of taxes and lack of any real system of special taxes on business and occupations, some of which are as unequal and unjust in their operation as is the general property tax itself.

"The present situation is acute. The state at the end of this year will face an accumulated deficit of not less than $5,000,000. This must be provided for or the credit of the state will be ruined, the efficiency of her institutions will be destroyed, and her faithful servants, particularly the public school teachers, will be driven to desperation.

"This large deficit is a menace to every interest in the state. We can hope for no real progress until it is wiped out and a stable system of state finance and taxation is adopted which will insure against such deficits in the future.

"We candidly admit that the business interests of Georgia are at least partially responsible for present conditions. Tax reform has been an issue in connection with the 30 years of the efficiency of her institutions. Instead of co-operating with the state government in working out a sane, just and equitable system of taxation under which adequate revenue for the state could be raised, business men, in the main, have sought only their own selfish interests with but little regard for the welfare or the needs of the state.

"Their attitude toward proposed tax measures has been one of opposition by the particular group affected and of indifference by most of the rest. It is apparent now that this was a mistaken attitude.

"Business men must lay aside their purely selfish interests and co-operate in working out a satisfactory tax program for the state. This is not philanthropy. It is self interest. The state must be saved from the present deplorable condition of its finances or business and industry of every character will continue to suffer as they are now doing.

"Realizing our responsibility and the obligation resting upon us to contribute at best we may toward changing these conditions, we have formed this organization of business men representing all interests and state-wide in its membership for the purpose of aiding and co-operating with the state government."

STATE CONSTITUTION IS ASSAILED BY LUTZ.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 5.—(Special.) Dr. Harvey L. Lutz, Princeton University economist who has been engaged by Governor L. G. Hardman to make a survey of the state's financial condition and needs, told the tax conference today that the Georgia constitution is "a fearful thing."

"It is 80 per cent petty legislation," asserted Professor Lutz. "About 90 per cent of it may be statements of the fundamental principles of the state. I hope you will consent to a revision of that document—and scrap most of it."

Pleading for sacrifices on the part of the businessmen, Dr. Lutz continued, "The government can't do anything because a man is elected to office he isn't immediately omniscient. The American people have learned to discount campaign promises."

"There must be some means by which the individual can have available detailed information with regard to government, on the basis of which he will have grounds for intelligent action. If you will carry on your work after bridging the present crisis and begin to accumulate information that will be available to all candidates and the general public you will have done a great service to this state."

Illustrating his idea that the first step in improving state financial conditions is to spend intelligently, Dr. Lutz said that the idea that the best way to increase protection is to add patrolmen is absurd.

The economist lambasted the uniform tax rule as it stands in Georgia's constitution, which was adopted in 1877, when there was little industry or property. No one could foresee that in 1930 the average state there would be as much intangible property, Dr. Lutz stated.

"Only the extremely ignorant or the extremely conscientious will be 'caught' and return all their intangible property," he added. "The uniform rule is an obvious piece of dea-wood. You must get it out of the constitution. You must have a patchwork. You have added and built without any regard to unity, now you must reconstruct."

NEW TAX REVISION ASSOCIATION FORMED.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—More than 100 citizens, meeting here today, organized the Georgia Tax Revision Association, with "the complete revision of Georgia's fiscal and tax system" as its aim.

The business and professional men elected Miller S. Bell, Milledgeville banker, president, and Ernest Camp, Monroe newspaperman, secretary. Fifty directors and 13 executive committees were named. Mr. Camp will establish an office in Atlanta and the executive committee will meet at the Piedmont hotel there at 11 o'clock, central time, next Tuesday.

The following were elected to the executive committee: Mr. Bell, chairman; W. J. Vereen, Moultrie; H. H. Swift, Columbus; M. D. McKinnon, Brunswick; T. K. Glenn (vice chairman), Atlanta; C. L. Woolford, Atlanta; Frank Neely, Atlanta; Ronald Ransome, Atlanta; John M. Graham, Rome; William Murphy, Savannah; C. R. Fitzpatrick, Warren; W. D. Anderson, Macon; J. Clay Murphy, Macon. Two more will be selected later.

The executive committee and the following will compose the board of directors: J. B. Wright, J. R. Dasher, Ben H. McLeod, E. D. Brantley, J. B. McLeod, J. B. Flournoy, Andrew C. Erwin, Charles H. Phinley, Virgil Hollingsworth, C. W. Skinner, John H. Chesham, Hill Freeman, Frank Linder, Paul Brown, S. E. Perry, J. D. Crump, Larabee Hand, J. S. Peters, I. M. Brumby, W. B. McKinzie, W. H. McKenzie, Norman Elster, William Candler, J. W. Robert, Wilmer L. Moore, F. J. Paxton, B. L. Buzz, C. B. Harmon, Sam Tate, J. H. Hosh, Leopold Adler, T. D. Roberts, J. E. Aiken, Victor Allen, J. E. Talma, Jr.

The meeting opened with an address by Mr. Bell, in which he stated that the only purpose of those present was to "render a real service to the state of Georgia."

"I am not a candidate for any political office," he added.

Committees for drafting a plan of organization and setting up the principles of the organization were appointed and while they were working R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, proved his co-operation.

"One of my official duties is to study existing tax conditions," Mr. Norman said. "I have found that in many progressive states great benefits have been derived from organizations of businessmen in co-operation with the governor and legislature."

Mr. Norman introduced Harley L. Lutz, Princeton University economist who has been engaged by Governor L. G. Hardman to make a survey of the state's financial condition and needs, calling attention to his international reputation as an economist.

EXPLOITATION OF TOURIST ATTRACTIONS URGED.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Advocating the Georgia Tax Revision Association, Howard E. Coffin, Georgia capitalist, today sent a telegram to Miller S. Bell, president of the new Georgia Tax Revision Association.

Mr. Bell read the message to the citizens assembled at the Hotel Dempsey to organize the association, and several members spoke words of response. It was stated that Mr. Coffin has spent more than $4,000,000 in developing Sea Island, Beach, and Sapelo Island, Ga. A message of thanks was telegraphed to him by the association.

Mr. Coffin was elected to the board of directors of the association. His telegram follows:

"Sorry I cannot attend meeting. Study of Georgia's financial structure should be made by disinterested experts. His co-operation and recommendations for correction of injustices and for attraction of industry and wealth to state."

"No instantaneous cure-all can be expected in our present chronic financial difficulty. I believe that our only sound solution lies in the adoption by the state of a sane, just and planned and aggressive program for increasing our taxable values."

"Expediting the paving of roads and exploiting Georgia's exceptional natural attractions through national publicity. Within five years we can bring into Georgia annually more cash than all other industries of the state put together. California has done this in spite of her handicaps of distance and time. Florida has done it with a cash annual tourist business of over $50,000,000 a sum of more than double all other of the state's business combined."

"Georgia can do all this and more. The only question is, have we the nerve and the will to undertake the job?"

Grocer Is Held Up And Robbed Of $30

M. Braunstein, operator of a grocery store at the corner of Randolph street and Auburn avenue, Tuesday night was held up by two negroes armed with shotguns who compelled him to lie down on the floor while they robbed his establishment of $30. Call Officers Maddox and Petty stated that the negroes answered to the same description as the pair which robbed a house across the street from Braunstein's place Monday night.

Another holdup alarm answered by the same officers a little later in the night was sent in by H. Vanderiet, of 486 Boulevard, who was robbed and afterwards locked up in his own garage by a negro who robbed him of $8 and a pocket knife. Owing to the darkness Vanderiet could not furnish a description of the bandit.

A third holdup was reported late Tuesday night by Mrs. Charles Bulger, of 748 Argonne avenue, who was returning from a theater alone when a negro threatened her with a gun on Argonne about a block from Ponce de Leon. Mrs. Bulger threw her pocketbook, containing about $30, to the negro and ran, she reported.

270th Hour Passed, Boaters Still Going

Inspired by new cash offers for every 24 hours they combine their grind at Lakewood park, Joe Logan and M. L. Trammell were cruising smoothly at midnight Tuesday, after breaking the world's outdoor motor endurance record by more than 24 hours. Early this morning the Atlanta boys had been on the lake 270 hours and were still going strong.

A cash prize of $500 for the new record, $50 for each day after 24 days, a new racing boat, a silver trophy and numerous other prizes have been offered for the record.

It is the first time in the history of the city that such a feat has been attempted and the youths have been through many hardships.

L. J. Harder, the first assistant, was taken from the boat sometime ago on advice of a physician and M. L. Trammell was substituted.

Atlantians are invited to witness the cruise around the lake. The park will be open day and night, free of charge, according to Oscar Mills, secretary and manager of the Southeastern Fair Association.

M'ARTHUR NAMED ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF

Former Fourth Corps Area Commander Succeeds General Sumnerall.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Major General Douglas MacArthur today was appointed chief of staff of the army by President Hoover, succeeding General Charles P. Sumnerall.

President Hoover said it gave him great pleasure to promote so brilliant a soldier to the position upon the retirement of General Sumnerall.

The chief executive acted upon the recommendation of Secretary Hurley in naming General MacArthur over other major generals who outranked him.

General MacArthur was recently ordered to command the ninth corps area with headquarters at San Francisco. He had been in command of the Philippine department.

He will assume his new duties upon the retirement of General Charles P. Sumnerall, November 20.

While the new chief of staff is sworn on the list of major generals eligible for the post, he is the ranking officer who can spend the entire four years in the position without having to retire for age. He will not retire until 1934. He was born in Little Rock, Ark., January 26, 1880, and was appointed to West Point from Wisconsin in 1899, graduating at the head of his class. He entered the engineering corps. For five years he served in engineering work and later was aide to the president.

From 1908 to 1917 he was assigned to various instruction duties and was assistant to the engineer officer in 1914.

From the outbreak of the World War, MacArthur's rise in rank was rapid. In 1917 he became a colonel of infantry and a year later a brigadier general. He commanded the Eighty-third infantry brigade of the Forty-second division at St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne offensives. He was twice wounded.

President Hoover also appointed Brigadier General Ben H. Fuller, commander of the marine corps, succeeding the late General Wendell C. Neville.

General Fuller became acting commander on the death of General Neville. His experience, rank and his record in the Philippines and in the World War, in which he was commander of the fourth corps area with headquarters at Fort McPherson.

Hot August Spell Is Here, Forecast Says

Although admitting readily enough that thundershowers in August are always possible, and usually able to cool things off, Director C. F. von Herrmann, official prophet at the weather bureau station here, Tuesday sighed and said: "We're in for another hot spell."

However, he hastened to add, the thermometer is unlikely to go out after new records after reaching 103 in July. Tuesday saw it climb to 95, but breezes are expected to hold it down to 91 or thereabouts today. The general outlook is for several days of real, midsummer weather with a faint prospect that showers may fall Thursday.

400 Guests To Attend Banquet for Sutton

Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, president of the Georgia Parent-Teacher Association, and S. V. Sanford, dean of the University of Georgia, will be the principal speakers Thursday night at the civic dinner to be tendered in honor of Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools and recently elected president of the National Education Association, it was announced Tuesday afternoon by a committee in charge of arrangements.

More than 400 guests already have indicated their intention to attend the dinner, which will be held at the East Lake Country Club, and which will be in recognition of Mr. Sutton's recent elevation to the high post of executive officer of the national association, as well as his many years of service in educational circles in Atlanta.

The dinner will begin promptly at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. It was emphasized, with Eugene R. Black presiding, and all those desiring reservations should make them at once.

Guests from all sections of the state are expected to attend. A general committee, composed of two scores of the most prominent citizens of Atlanta, has been busily engaged during the last two weeks laying plans for the occasion.

Graduates of Tech High in the classes of 1918-19-20-21 and '22 who desire to attend the luncheon are requested to communicate with Roy White at The Constitution. Mr. White was principal of Tech High when those classes graduated. A special table will be reserved for former graduates.

DIXIE HIGHWAY HEAD TO BE BURIED TODAY

Judge M. M. Allison Will Be Laid To Rest at Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Funeral services for Judge M. M. Allison, 65, president of the Dixie Highway Association and pioneer good roads booster, who died yesterday, will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Lyle G. Kilvington and Battle McLeister officiating.

Judge Allison was one of the prime movers for the organization of the Dixie Highway Association and drafted the resolutions at a meeting here in 1915 of the governors of the states moving for the organization of the highway to the building of the cross-country highway. In honor of his efforts, the highway association erected a shaft on Walden's ridge, the highest point on the highway between Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Miami, Fla.

God must have needed a good city editor. Someday, perhaps, the newspapermen who knew and loved him will join him through all his years upon The Constitution, that the news of his death comes with the worst blow. For there never was a man more universally beloved by all who really knew him, than Bob Moran. To love him, to understand him, it was necessary to know him long and well. Bob was never the man to reveal his innermost self casually. It took years of closest association to penetrate to the true Bob. But when you did penetrate, you found a soul of rare beauty, of utmost generosity and of quiet confidence in the ultimate good of almost everybody.

"Bob" Moran, best known and best beloved landmark in the scheme of newspaper things in Atlanta, has gone. No one could go who would leave so great a gap in the daily work and in the hearts of his co-workers.

Millican Busy Selecting New Committee Members

Resignation of Eight
From General Council
Brings Perplexities to Brow of Acting Mayor.

With the 1936 committee list shot as full of holes as a sieve by resignation Monday of eight members of general council, Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican today will give his attention to the job of filling vacancies on the committee, he announced Tuesday.

Mayor Ragsdale is expected back in the city in the next few weeks, and at that time will give his attention to some of the important committee re-appointments, but in the meantime Mr. Millican expects to name enough committee members to keep the various groups functioning.

Three places in council were filled Monday afternoon following the resignations, and the other five will probably be filled at council's next meeting. The post of general manager of parks, from which L. L. Wallis resigned, will probably be filled later in the year. Meanwhile, Fred Whitely, assistant general manager, is acting as head of the department.

Among those mentioned for the park department job are Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, chairman of the park committee; Mr. Whitley, James W. Maddox, school commissioner from the fifth ward; Virgil Echols, city construction department employee, and J. H. Roberts, a contractor.

Dr. John C. White, house physician at the Wincoff hotel, who was in council from the seventh ward in 1915 and 1916, and in the state legislature during 1917 and 1918, has been mentioned as a candidate to succeed Councilman Jack Hardy, whose resignation as a sixth ward representative takes effect September 1.

J. Sid Tiller, former president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, was mentioned as a probable candidate for the third ward councilman seat of J. W. Rountree.

Action on a proposal to name J. T. Marley, democratic nominee for council from the seventh ward to succeed Councilman Wiley L. Moore on January 1, as councilman from the seventh ward to succeed J. T. O'Brien, was held up Monday until the return to the city of Mr. Moore.

It is understood there is probability that Councilman Moore will offer in the December general election for the aldermanic seat of W. Guy Dobbs, from the seventh ward.

A council committee appointed to investigate the charge against Councilman Chester McLendon, of the second ward, will probably be called together later in the week by Alderman E. A. Gilliam, of the twelfth ward, chairman. Other members of the committee are: Alderman P. L. Moon, second ward; Alderman J. Frank Beck, eighth ward; Councilman George B. Lyle, eleventh ward, and Councilman Nelson T. Spratt, tenth ward. Acting Mayor Millican Monday approved the paper calling for the investigation.

Indicted members of general council who resigned Monday were: Alderman O. H. Williamson, ninth ward; Alderman C. E. Buchanan, eighth ward; Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, second ward; Councilman J. W. Rountree, third ward; Councilman C. L. Chosewood, third ward; Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, seventh ward; Councilman J. T. O'Brien, seventh ward, all effective immediately; Councilman J. C. Hardy, sixth ward, effective September 1.

Dr. S. D. Warnock, indicted city physician, also resigned. The resignation of Wallis as park general manager was announced by Chairman White, of the park committee.

Mr. Beck was elected to succeed Alderman Buchanan, G. Dan Bridges was named third ward councilman to succeed J. T. O'Brien.

Bond of $7,500 Set For Bryce Gazaway

Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court Tuesday granted the application of Bryce M. Gazaway, alleged slayer of William A. Stewart, for release on bond. Judge Humphries fixed the bond at $7,500.

Stewart met his death in an altercation at a barbecue stand on the Pryor road on the night of June 19. At the bond application hearing it was brought out that Stewart died from a blood clot alleged to have formed after Gazaway struck him on the head.

Mrs. Lois McElroy, who was with Gazaway at the time of the killing, is at liberty on bond. No date for the trial of Gazaway has been set. His attorneys announced that they would appeal the bond fixed by Judge Humphries.

Little Hope Is Held For Veal's Recovery

Little hope for the recovery of E. A. Veal, of Brookhaven, who received a fractured skull in an altercation early Saturday morning, was held by physicians at Grady hospital Tuesday night. Prospects for his recovery were dimmed, attaches said, because of the fact that Veal's skull had been fractured in the same region.

William Gilbert is being held without bond in DeKalb county jail pending outcome of Veal's condition. Veal told police he was knocked down by Gilbert, a former employee, during an altercation Saturday morning.

Hit by Plastering, Woman Badly Hurt

Mrs. R. J. Bussack, 43, of 88 Ellis street, N. E., was injured about the head Tuesday night when plastering in her home fell, knocking her unconscious. At Grady hospital doctors reported her condition not serious, although it was said that she probably suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

Charitable Institutions Share in Scott Estate

Several local charitable institutions were named beneficiaries under the will of William D. Scott, pioneer merchant, who died recently, in a will filed with Ordinary Thomas J. Jeffries Tuesday. Mr. Scott was for many years a member of the firm of Scott & Feary.

After making numerous bequests to relatives, Mr. Scott left $500 to the First Methodist church and directed that the residue be divided equally between the children's ward at the Wesley Memorial hospital, the Methodist Orphans' Home at Decatur and the Old Women's Home.

Mother and Infant Bitten by Huge Rat

Attacked as they slept early Tuesday morning by a huge rat, Mrs. T. Jarrett, of 2822 Mason street, and her one-year-old son, Ralph, were severely bitten by the vicious rodent, necessitating hospital treatment against possibility of rabies, it was learned late Tuesday afternoon at Grady hospital.

4-Year Term Sought For State Senators

A four-year term for members of the Georgia state senate, to be brought about by the adoption of a constitutional amendment providing for the election of half the senate every two years, is being advocated by State Senator D. B. Zellars, of Hart county.

In Atlanta Tuesday Senator Zellars said that if he is successful in winning the election to the house this fall, he will introduce a bill proposing the adoption of such an amendment to the state constitution.

Big Bethel Will Hold Home-Coming Sunday

An outstanding program in the week's celebration of the Big Bethel A. M. E. church of its 65th anniversary has been prepared for observance next Sunday, including a homecoming service by the Sunday school membership in which the church members will take an active part, followed by special thanksgiving services during morning services, at which Rev. B. G. Dawson, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

The home-coming celebration of the Sunday school will be conducted by Dr. J. R. Porter.

During the afternoon a special thanksgiving anniversary mass meeting will be conducted, during which several prominent speakers are scheduled to deliver addresses, and a special program of music has been arranged. Among those scheduled to speak are John A. Manget, Kendall Weisiger and Dr. W. W. Alexander, the last-named director of the Interracial Commission.

Extraordinary Session To Be Held; Hospital Attaches, County Officials Appear.

The Fulton grand jury after hearing a number of physicians and employees at the Grady hospital, County Commissioner Paul S. Etheridge and Captain A. A. Clarke, county superintendent of public works, announced through its foreman, Thomas J. Lyon, session is to be held today at which Tuesday night that an extraordinary projected indictments are to be considered.

Answering widespread reports that the "end of the long graft probe is at hand," Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens, who is directing the operations of the grand jury in the absence of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin emphatically denied that there is to be a let-up in the investigation.

"The end is still far in the future," Mr. Stephens said. "Right now we are even considering new indictments." Mr. Lyon said his announcement of Wednesday's session was the grand jury's answer.

"We have so much work cut out for us now that we have to keep right on going day after day," Mr. Lyon said. "It is impossible for us to handle our work on routine business days."

Efforts to learn why Mr. Etheridge and Captain Clarke were called before the grand jury were in vain Tuesday night as both refused to comment on their testimony, but Commissioner Etheridge, who is chairman of the board of public works committee, issued a statement saying that no further road projects are to be considered by the board until all those already started have been completed.

Because of this statement observers considered it likely that the grand jurors merely questioned the county officials regarding their previously announced economy program.

"The commission is to hold its regular meeting tomorrow and you can say for us in advance in order that many people will not waste their time coming to the meeting that it is absolutely impossible for us to start any new road projects right now. We must finish those we have started and we do not have the funds to start any new work."

Hawks To Start Second Effort This Morning

CURTIS FIELD, L. I., Aug. 5. (UN)—Captain Frank M. Hawks, noted flier, will take off from Curtiss field at 6 a. m. tomorrow in an attempt to lower the speed record for a transcontinental flight, he announced tonight.

Hawks will fly his new Travel Air low-wing monoplane, built especially for his attempt to lower the record. He will make three stops en route to Los Angeles. The first at Indianapolis, the second at Wichita and the third at Albuquerque. Each of these stops he intends to be for no longer than three minutes.

In flying from New York to Los Angeles tomorrow, Captain Hawks hopes to lower the record set by Lieutenant Colonel Roscoe Turner. He will then fly back, over the same route, in an attempt to beat the record established last spring by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

He expects to stop in Los Angeles only long enough to refuel his ship, which is equipped with a 300-horsepower Wright motor. His plane is capable of attaining a speed of close to 300 miles an hour. He intends to fly at an extremely high altitude and expects to maintain a cruising speed of between 260 and 270 miles an hour.

Bottling Plant Safe Cracked, $1,000 Taken

Apparently the work of a band of safe-breakers, the vault of the Orange-Crusher Company, at 152 Ellis street, early Tuesday morning was broken into and between $1,000 and $1,500 in currency taken, according to police reports Tuesday.

Discovery of the Orange-Crusher safe robbery was made early Tuesday morning by A. B. Houston, sales manager, who found that the intruders had gained admission through a rear window near the fire escape on the second floor and after robbing the safe by knocking off the combination, had succeeded in jamming the doors together again in such a way as to necessitate more than a half hour's work on the part of police before the vault could be opened and the loss determined.

About two years ago the Orange-Crusher Company's safe was looted in a similar manner, the yegmen that time obtaining a similar amount. No clues to the burglars were left, police said.

Burial of C. G. Coster To Be Held Here Today

Carl G. Coster, 50, president of Adamson-Coster, Inc., dry cleaning establishment, who died Monday at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. A. B. Peck, at Knoxville, Tenn., following a brief illness, will be buried at West View today following services held in the Tennessee city Tuesday.

At the time of his death Mr. Coster was on a visit to the home of his wife's sister and news of his passing came as a great shock to hundreds of his friends here. He made his residence at 1420 The Byway, and was a leader in the dry cleaning industry here. He was born in Sweden August 30, 1880, coming to the United States as a boy. From Wilmington, N. C., he came to Atlanta, where he entered the cleaning business and gradually expanded until, at the time of his death, he was operating six establishments here.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Miss Dorothy Coster, and a number of brothers and sisters, most of whom live in Sweden. He was a member of St. Philip's cathedral and took an active part in that church's affairs.

Exchange Club Will Entertain Orphans Today

Headed by the Atlanta Police band and consisting of more than 100 automobiles loaded with children, the Atlanta Exchange Club's annual "Sunshine Special" will parade through the downtown sections this morning en route to Idlewood park, where a big picnic and kiddies' jubilee will be held, the little guests to come from the various orphans' homes in and around Atlanta.

The procession will form at Whitehall and Spring streets at 9 o'clock, and will proceed through Five Points on out Peachtree to the park where the orphans will be given their biggest time of the year, with band music and radio programs, as well as a mountain of sandwiches, popcorn, peanuts, candy, ice cream, potato chips, pop, lemonade and other "goodies" waiting for them. There will be swimming and games, races and other forms of entertainment. The children will be returned to their respective homes at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Upwards of 800 orphans and underprivileged children from the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home at Hapeville, the Methodist Orphans' Home at Decatur; Georgia Children's Home, Atlanta Child's Home and the Hillside Cottage Home will be taken to the picnic. The Rotary Club is furnishing 12 cars while the Kiwanis of Atlanta is supplying more than 20, and both the Atlanta Woman's Club and the West End Woman's Club are furnishing several additional automobiles.

Each year the Atlanta Exchange Club entertains children from local orphanages, in keeping with the policy of the national organization, which last year gave picnics and outings to more than 30,000 underprivileged children in the United States.

MOVE TO RELIEVE PEN CONGESTION STARTED

Department of Justice Announces Appointment of Georgia Probation Men.

Increase of the present number of federal probation officers from nine to 54, by which Georgia will get one and probably two additional such officers, as a move toward relieving the congestion in federal prisons, was announced Tuesday in a statement issued by the department of justice in Washington.

At the present time, Georgia has only one probation officer serving the entire state, composed of three federal court districts. The volume of the work falling on William H. Chapell, of Macon, the probation official, is so heavy, federal court officials stated, that little, if any, personal attention can be given to the cases of prisoners who are paroled.

This move to relieve the congestion in the prisons recalls that the last prison census showed that the Atlanta penitentiary had a population in excess of 4,000, when it was built to accommodate about 1,800 prisoners.

The statement announcing that Georgia would get two additional officers is believed here to mean in addition to the one now acting in the Macon district.

Candler Bids $500,000 For Apartment Title

Title to the Ten-Fifty Ponce de Leon apartments, 10-story structure at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Highland avenues, was formally bid for by Asa G. Candler, Jr., in the receiver's sale of the property Tuesday.

The offer of $500,000 made by Mr. Candler through his attorney, W. D. Thompson, is a sequence of his recent purchase of 93 per cent of the defaulted bonds outstanding against the property. Mr. Candler paid 65 cents on the dollar for the bulk of the bonds at that time, which is said to represent a higher price than will be realized by holders of the remaining 7 per cent through Tuesday's $500,000 offer for title.

The Fulton National bank acted as receiver for the property. Mr. Candler's bid was the only one submitted at the sale. While court approval will be required for acceptance of the offer, due to the fact that Mr. Candler already holds practically the entire financial interest in the property, the bidding was regarded mainly as a formal procedure for clearing of title.

J. L. Key Will Speak At Lawyers' Meeting

Mayor-Elect James L. Key will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Lawyers' Club, which will be held at 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Henry Grady hotel, it was announced Tuesday. A large number of members is expected to attend.

Mr. Key will speak on the subject, "The Lawyer in Politics," and is expected to deal with the opportunities offered members of the legal profession in political spheres.

State highway commission Tuesday for $24,875. The project had been previously advertised for letting and Ed Pettus, Montgomery contractor, was awarded the job.

Colored State Singers Open Gathering Today

The Colored State Union Singers will hold their fifteenth annual song gathering at the Mount Vernon Baptist church, beginning today and continuing through Sunday, with the exception of Saturday, when no session will be held, it was announced Tuesday by A. G. Taylor, president.

Approximately 1,000 singers are expected to take part in the annual services, there being 30 to 40 members of each class and a total of 50 classes throughout Georgia comprising the union.

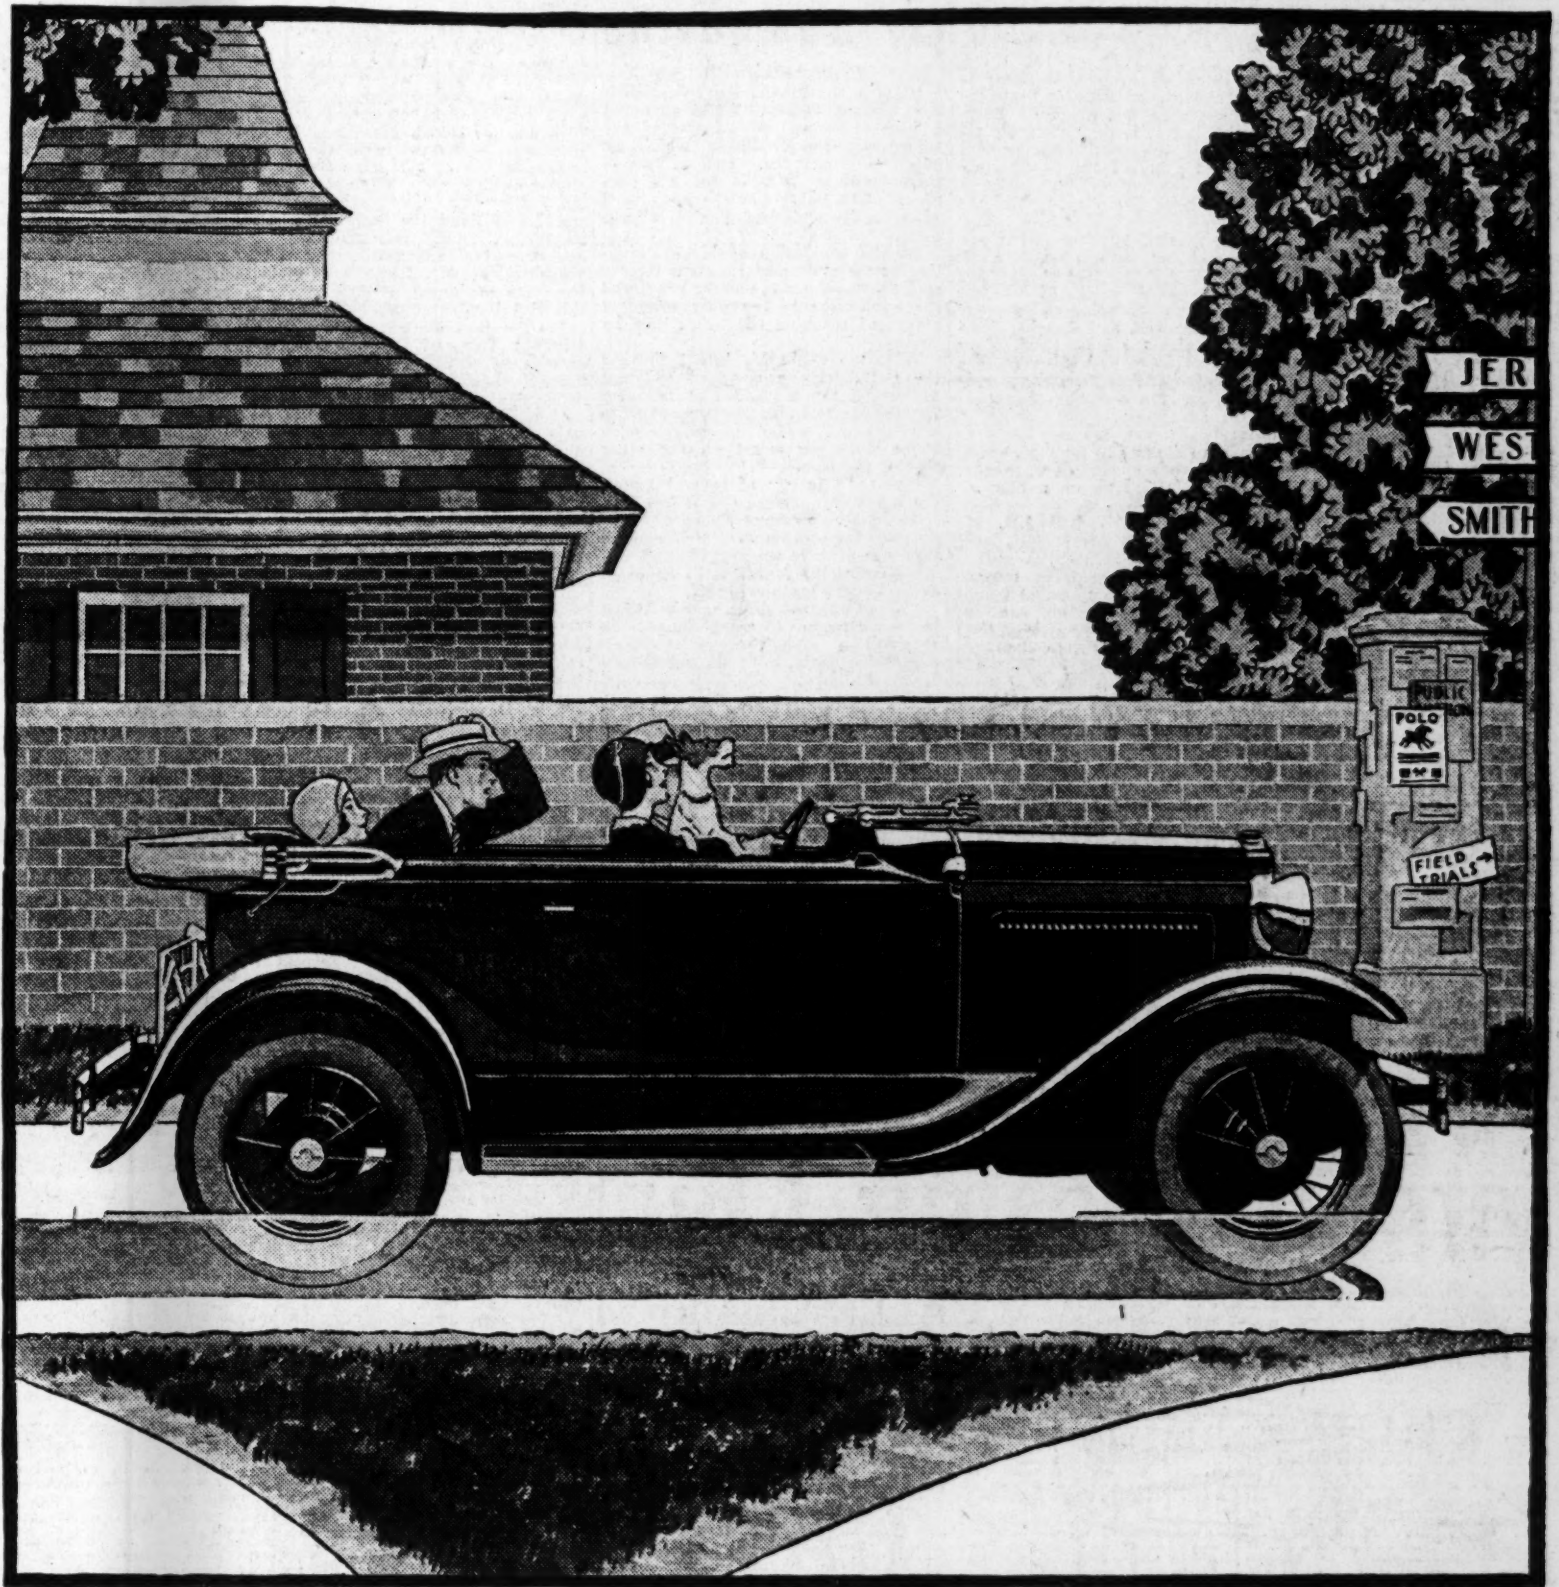

The program will be composed of spirituals, to be sung in solo, quartet, duet and ensemble units. The Mount Vernon Baptist church is located at West Hunter and Mangum streets, S. W. Special reservations have been made for white persons interested in the spirituals.

The New Ford De Luxe Phaeton

THIS car, newly added to the Ford line, has achieved distinguished favor because of its low, fleet lines, beautiful colors, and attractive sport treatment. The spirit of youth is reflected in its sprightly appearance and alert performance. To an unusual degree, it combines style and utility.

Among its pleasing features are an adjustable front seat, folding windshield and windshield wings of Triplex shatter-proof glass and a side fender well for the spare tire. Upholstery and trimming are in keeping with the latest mode. The rear quarter is slightly depressed below the belt to receive the top when down, thus preserving the straight flowing lines of the car.

Expresses Appreciation to Kellogg Company for Relief

If you are troubled with constipation, this letter from Mr. John J. Mulligan, 300 So. Cicero Avenue, Chicago, Ill., will interest you:

"This is simply a letter of appreciation for the wonderful results I have obtained through the use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

"For years, in fact ever since my return from France, I have been troubled with constipation and its companion ills. I tried numerous remedies in vain. Finally, in desperation, not wishing to be a slave to laxatives all my life, I turned to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The results were remarkable—in fact the next day long-sought-for relief became a happy reality."

The Kellogg Company has received thousands of similar letters in praise of ALL-BRAN, the product that is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Now available both in the improved krumbled cereal and the new Biscuit form.

It also adds needed iron to the diet and builds health.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream . . . in soups, salads and fruit juices . . . in cooked foods and hot breads. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Detroit-Atlanta-Florida Air Mail Route Service

Postoffice Department Giving Tentative Con- sideration to Proposed New North-South Line.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Tentative consideration is being given by the postoffice department to the establishment of an air mail route between Jacksonville, Fla., and Detroit, via Atlanta, it was learned here today.

As yet no decision has been reached but strenuous efforts are being made to bring about the installation of the new service by approximately a dozen cities which would share in the resultant benefits.

The move was originally started by the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce which has interested the following cities: Detroit, Mich.; Toledo, Lima and Dayton, Ohio; Lexington, Louisville and Middlesboro, Ky.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Atlanta and Macon, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. The proposed service, it is claimed, would serve as a feeder for the recently established line between Florida and Cuba and South America.

Louis J. Stricker, chairman of a special committee on the subject named by the Cincinnati commercial body, reports that his organization is nearly ready to place before Postmaster-General Walter P. Brown a study of the proposed service, showing the great commercial gains which would accrue to the business interests of all the cities mentioned and expects a favorable reply to his suggestions.

The postoffice department, on the other hand, wishes to have assurances that the amount of traffic will be sufficient to make the line pay and calls attention to the fact that a number of the places mentioned already have air mail contacts with Florida. Under bids to be opened in this city on August 25 an air mail route between Atlanta and Louisville then going on to southern California, will be established. It is possible, however, that this might be linked in with the Detroit-Jacksonville plan, but no decision is likely to be reached for some weeks at best.

STORE TOBACCO, TALMADGE URGES

have with them an early conference. He replied that the South Carolina body would be glad to receive the committee and would have present at the conference others who would be important factors in the situation.

Colonel Butler, C. B. Jones and E. A. McWhorter are expected to leave Savannah Friday morning. Mr. Long and Mr. Jarman will go direct from their respective homes to Florence, according to present arrangements. Immediately upon their return the committee will have formulated a report which it is considered likely will be made at a meeting of all interested.

Dr. F. B. Bomberger and J. B. Hutson, who attended the tobacco meeting in Savannah, left for a visit to Statesboro, Metter, Vidalia, Baxley, Tifton, Moultrie and Valdosta and will return to Washington from Valdosta.

Prices improve in Georgia. Meanwhile reports from the Nashville, Habersham, Douglas, Thomas, Wilkes, Statesboro, Waycross and Quitman markets indicated better prices were being offered for the bright leaf than during the opening week, although in some quarters dissatisfaction at the low rate still was apparent.

So far as satisfaction with prices is concerned, Thomasville had its best 1936 season tobacco sale today. Growers were paid from $15 to $22 for row after row of the weed, and average would probably have run $16 per hundred pounds, or better, had it not been that there was thrown on the floor at the last of the sale a considerable lot of half-damaged weed, which brought the average down to $13 or $14. Baskets numbering 310 on the floor indicated 40,000 pounds sold, and it stayed sold. Growers for the first time this season were freed from turning their sales tickets, and thereby indicating refusal of prices offered.

Quitman's Average Rises. Quitman's average came up Tuesday morning with a bound, and $2,396 pounds of bright leaf tobacco was sold on the floor of the two warehouses at an average price of 15.02. Prices ranged from 5 to 30 cents and farmers are greatly encouraged over the change in price.

This is the best average in Quitman for the season and it is believed that it is one of the best in the entire belt. Warehousemen are advising growers to bring in the tobacco as it is believed that the prices will be as high this week as any time during the remainder of the season.

Situation in Other Towns. Statesboro reported a quarter of a million pounds of the floors of the two warehouses Tuesday, with prices ranging from 24 cents down to 5 cents per pound. The average was $14.31 per hundred pounds. Total receipts at Statesboro have gone beyond the million-pound mark.

Waycross has its heaviest tobacco sales of the season Tuesday. The record offerings followed a slight advance in prices. Tuesday market reports had not been received from other tobacco growing sections Tuesday, but Douglas telegraphed that 685,364 pounds had been sold Monday for $87,090.36, an average of $12.01 per hundred pounds.

Almost three-quarters of a million pounds were disposed of on the Nashville market Monday for an average price of $14.31 per hundred and a total of $1,027,507.43.

Heavy sales throughout the week were expected at Habersham, where 75,000 pounds were sold Monday for an average of $15.80 per hundred, compared to the average price of $12 prevailing last week.

Heavy Sales at Valdosta.

Heavy sales marked the Valdosta tobacco market Tuesday, the warehouses being so overloaded there is another block sale. Figures from the warehouses were not available Tuesday night, but it is conservatively estimated that the total tonnage will run 703,812 pounds for approximately $91,465.55, the prices remaining a substantial raise above last week's low level.

Monday's sales, opening of the second week of the market, which could not be reported accurately Monday night, showed a total of 607,353 pounds, which brought an average slightly above $13, and totaling $81,507. This was the most satisfactory sale of the season, and observers are of the opinion that Tuesday's sale will show an even better average when compiled accurately.

The Wednesday are not likely to run quite so high as to tonnage, owing to the fact that one large warehouse stopped this afternoon on a block.

CAROLINA PRICES LOWER, OPENING SALES LIGHTER.

FLORENCE, S. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Reports received here from tobacco markets of the South Carolina bright belt indicated that opening sales of the season Tuesday were lighter than last year and that prices averaged several cents per pound lower.

The average price was estimated at from 9 to 13 cents, although some higher grade tobacco brought more. The smaller lots on the auction markets were attributed to the low prices offered for Georgia tobacco the past few days.

Mullins, reported offerings of 350,000 pounds, as compared with 700,000 pounds on the first day of the 1929 season. The average price was estimated at 11 cents.

About the same quantity was reported from Lake City, the second largest market in the belt, and about the same price was offered.

A slightly better price was paid at Loris, where the average was said to be from 12 to 12 1/2 cents, with 100,000 pounds on the independent floors.

Darlington, with 85,000 pounds of fered and an estimated average of 11 cents offered, reported the tobacco growers pleased, in view of the fact that it was a poor grade of leaf that was sold.

At Loris offerings were said to be bringing a 12 1/2-cent average, with 100,000 pounds on the independent floors.

At Kingstree, the amount offered was somewhat less than last year's 250,000 pounds, and the average price was estimated at around 10 cents.

North Carolina border markets in the South Carolina belt likewise had smaller sales than on the first day of last year. Lumberton growers received an average of 9 to 10 cents a pound, as compared with 15 cents last year. A few baskets of high grade tobacco sold for 40 cents. Clarkston reported an average price of 10 cents as compared with 16.9 last season.

AFFILIATION DECLARED IMPRACTICAL. LAKE CITY, S. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The suggestion that Georgia tobacco growers attempt to sell their tobacco by affiliating with the South Carolina Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association was pronounced impractical today by W. E. Nesmith, president of the co-operative.

Mr. Nesmith said the charter of the association would not permit Georgia farmers to become members. Beyond this obstacle, he added, the book was closed yesterday, and no additional members can be admitted.

The suggestion regarding the Georgia growers was made at a recent meeting held in Savannah and attended by representatives of the United States government.

Mr. Nesmith said his information was that members of the co-operative today received as much cash on their tobacco as was paid those who sold on the independent floors, although the co-operative advanced only 75 per cent of value. He said the South Carolina organization would handle 20,000,000 pounds of tobacco, or about one-fourth of the state's product.

Wilkins Pleased By Examination Of Submarine

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Sir George Hubert Wilkins, noted British explorer, has inspected the submarine, the O-12, in which he hopes to reach the north pole, and pronounced it suitable for his purpose. The O-12 is at the navy yard awaiting reconditioning and alterations.

At the conclusion of his examination of the craft yesterday Sir George said he was more than ever convinced the submarine is the only practical means of reaching the north pole by boat.

It is the explorer's intent to take the O-12, with a crew of 18 men, provisions for a year and fuel for 7,000 miles, to Spitzbergen, and thence over sea and under sea to the open water in Bering strait on the other side of the pole.

The O-12 is one of several undersea boats built before the World War. It has been recommissioned and was destined for scrapping. It is smaller than the average submarine and will be renamed the Nautilus in honor of Jules Verne's mythical craft.

Three hundred ships have been lost in vain attempts to reach the pole by crushing an ice path through the ice, Sir Hubert said. "I do not believe it can be done. We plan to cruise under the ice at a speed of not more than four knots. If we hit submerged ice, the smaller size of the boat will be damaged, because of the protective steel we plan to install.

"Every 100 miles we will have to come to the surface and take in air. If it happens to be open water we can open the hatches. If there is ice overhead, we can pierce it with a collapsible sub-breaker, and through a tube. We expect to be able to pierce ice 12 feet thick.

"The purpose of the trip is purely scientific. We plan to test the behavior of the gyroscopic compass at the pole and hope also to make preliminary observations of the possibility of placing a weather bureau station in the far north. A station would be of great value to meteorologists in forecasting the weather.

SLATON'S RADIO TALK BRINGS FIERY REPLY

Harris' Headquarters State- ment Refers to "Madman Striking in Every Direction."

John M. Slaton's statement over the radio Monday night that Senator William Harris, his opponent for the United States senatorial nomination in the September 10 primary, used his government campaign for mailing campaign letters as a means of evading charges brought a sharp reply from Harris' headquarters today.

"After listening to the deluge on the air Monday night," the statement says, "in which ex-Governor Slaton flamed and raged like a madman, rebasing and recharging to Senator Harris every ridiculous thing on the map, the headquarters of Senator Harris feels more and more assured of his triumphant re-election than ever before."

"Mr. Slaton simply rebased and elaborated on every ridiculous charge laid at the feet of Senator Harris, but in which ex-Governor Slaton flamed and raged like a madman, rebasing and recharging to Senator Harris every ridiculous thing on the map, the headquarters of Senator Harris feels more and more assured of his triumphant re-election than ever before."

"The statement then continues: 'When the people of Georgia are interested in most of all is that the white men and women of Georgia shall not be debauched and debased by the use of campaign money in the hands of a few individuals. We shall not be bought with the indiscriminate use of campaign money in almost every county in the state; that the O-12 is at the navy yard awaiting reconditioning and alterations.'

Slaton Says Harris Insulted the Press

COVINGTON, Ga., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Senator William J. Harris inaugurated his campaign for re-election by yesterday insulting the newspapers of Georgia in his second speech. He was charged here tonight by his opponent, former Governor John M. Slaton, in an address to a large and enthusiastic audience in the Newton county courthouse.

The senator's second speech was delivered last week at Moultrie, said Mr. Slaton, "and we were told that in that speech he made an astounding statement concerning the press of Georgia. He said in my possession a stenographic report of what was said, furnished to me by a court reporter who took down the speech just as he delivered it."

"Here is what the senator said about the newspapers of Georgia: 'He (referring to me), thought that by the money he would use in buying up the newspapers he could destroy me and fool you people.'

"Few men in public life in Georgia have been as generously treated by the newspapers as Senator Harris. They have published hundreds of his interviews and publicity stories sent from his publicity bureau in Washington. They could not have been more kind and considerate of any man in public office than they were to Senator Harris."

In return for it, they get this gross insult in the very second speech of the senator's campaign. Of all men in Georgia, it is the least becoming of Senator Harris to make the bald statement that the newspapers of this state can be 'bought up.'

"On top of the columns and columns of free publicity they've given him, Senator Harris sends the newspapers advertisements in this campaign with a request for publication at reduced rates on the ground that he is a poor man and that the newspapers show his regard for the papers and his gratitude to them for sale."

"Slaton also emphasized the issue of 'Harris, high taxes and hard times' in the support of the World Court by Senator Harris; the rejection of Judge Parker of North Carolina, and numerous other questions at issue in the contest.

toward reducing the state's indebtedness and that what was left over could be taken care of by anticipating the rentals of the Western and Atlantic railroad and the Henry Grady hotel. Other candidates were quick to jump on this plan by calling attention to the fact that the legislature of which Russell was a member has already anticipated these rentals until 1936.

Perry for Diversion. James A. Perry in a speech delivered in Elberton Tuesday night recommended practically the same plan suggested by Carswell, in declaring in favor of the diversion of sufficient automobile tag and gasoline income to reduce the state's indebtedness within a reasonable period of time.

Former Senator E. D. Rivers has not been in Atlanta since Sunday, but it was announced from his headquarters that he would announce his plan for straightening out the tangled financial affairs of the state within a few days.

Diversion Only Way, Says Perry

ELBERTON, Ga., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—In a speech delivered here tonight James A. Perry, one of five candidates for the nomination for governor, declared that there were two possible ways by which Georgia can pay her debts and escape disaster to schools, charitable institutions and old soldiers. One is by an increased tax rate, to which Mr. Perry declared his opposition, and the other is by diversion of gasoline and automobile tag monies to the lesser of two evils.

Mr. Perry said he was forced to choose the latter.

Continuing, Mr. Perry said: "We are in a condition that calls for sacrifice. There are but two ways to get out of debt; either take it from our income, from whatever source it can be best spared for a while, and pay all debts, else increase the revenue in the form of taxation. I would never consent to the latter method. Therefore, constriction in imperious request must take, on the coming of the next legislature, from our present income and pay our debts. First relieve the disgraced conditions of our ledgeville, Alto sanitarium, pay our soldiers and school teachers and our schools, then pay every other debt we owe. The only way to do it is to decrease our road construction in this state after all present contracts now outstanding for construction have been paid. We must not pay out as much as is necessary to pay our debts within a reasonable time. We can, over a short time, take from our income what we need to pay our debts. It will be necessary to do this, and I appeal to the pride of Georgians to accept this sacrifice."

"Surely, the pride of Georgians is greater than our personal pleasure, and we are in a comparatively short while, I want paved roads in Georgia just as speedily as anyone, but above everything else, we must have a state where where we were before politics and politicians took charge. Colonel Tate stopped highway development for nine months because of the charge of the bankrupt mess Mr. Holder when he was forced off the highway board. We can do it again."

"We are in a state of emergency and we must stay out. Under no circumstances would I ever approve any appropriation without the funds having first been provided to pay it."

"As to our income after we get out of debt: We must take the tax and have tax for real estate, as a means of supporting our state government; we must have a state revenue system, the Confederate veterans and school teachers, George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, told an audience here today that this message was typical of the response his tag plan is being received all over Georgia."

The candidate explained his plan briefly, saying it was a simple one. He said that each one of us should understand it. Mr. Carswell told how the debt was created, blaming two of his opponents with being parties to it. Mr. Rivers was chairman of the senate appropriations committee and did not raise his voice against the bill, and young Dick Russell was speaker of the house and caused the passage of the bill by breaking a tie and voting for the bill.

"If the other candidates have a better plan, let them state it. So far they have not. Each one of us should understand it. Mr. Rivers was chairman of the senate appropriations committee and did not raise his voice against the bill, and young Dick Russell was speaker of the house and caused the passage of the bill by breaking a tie and voting for the bill."

60 per cent of their claims thereafter until all are paid. He quoted State Auditor Tom Wisdom to the effect that the reimbursement certificates held by the various counties total approximately $20,000,000.

HOOVER PLEDGES AID TO DROUTH AREAS

Parched Crops Become Chief Government Concern; No Plan Outlined.

BY MAURITZ HALLGREN.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UN)—President Hoover today pledged the federal government to do all it can to bring aid and relief to the drouth areas.

He said the situation had been lengthily discussed at White House conferences in which Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Legge of the farm board participated. Although the government has not yet adopted a definite program of assistance, this will soon be forthcoming, Mr. Hoover added.

Despite the president's pledge, Acting Chairman Schilling of the farm board, indicated there might be serious obstacles to the government's desire to relieve the farmers. He said the board is not in a position to help farmers who are not members of co-operatives and therefore could not deal with hundreds of thousands of farmers affected.

President Hoover may be forced to abandon any vacation should the drouth continue much longer, it was learned at the White House.

Much of the government's program will depend upon the results of the survey being made by the agriculture department into the extent of the drouth damage. A report covering this survey will be published Monday, the president said.

Advisees have been sent by Mr. Hoover to determine how they will help, possibly through voluntarily reduced rates on hay and feed to be taken into the affected regions and from live stock shipped out of these districts.

"There can be no doubt as to its most serious character in many localities," the president declared in discussing the drouth, and that unless relieved there will be real suffering.

The drouth situation has been the subject of several conferences between Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Chairman Legge, of the farm board, and the White House. The department has undertaken a detailed survey of the situation. They will report next Monday upon the condition of each section of the country. Thus far the information collected

Coastguardsman Killed By Fellow Dry Sleuths' Gun

Mistaken for Rum-Runner, Boatswain's Mate Slain When Machine Gun Riddles Boat.

SALISBURY BEACH, Mass., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Boatswain's Mate Lewis E. Pratt, of the local coast guard station, died today at an Ipswich hospital of bullet wounds inflicted by coast guardsmen from the Gloucester base who mistook him for a rum runner.

A hearing will be opened tomorrow into the shooting, which occurred Monday night and was believed for many hours to have been done by rum runners.

Pratt, with Surfman Cleo Falkingham, was patrolling in Ipswich bay last night when the accident occurred. The two guardsmen in a regular coast guard surfboat, were seeking a motorboat which was abandoned by two men after it took fire. The men requested the surfboat to tow the damaged craft to shore.

About 75 yards north of the mouth of the Essex river, Pratt and Falkingham sighted a long, low, white motorboat. They thought it was deserted and approached it. Then, in quick succession, a flashlight beam from the motorboat was fired, and the craft in which the two guardsmen were riding was riddled by machine gun fire.

Falkingham managed to drive the splintered surfboat out of range of the assailant craft and landed Pratt at Little Neck, Ipswich. The victim was taken to Gloucester hospital, where he died about two hours later.

Following Falkingham's report of the shooting, it was believed that the attacking boat was a rum-runner, and coast guard craft from four stations searched for the killers.

Later, it was announced here that coast guards attached to Base 7 in Gloucester, on patrol in a privately owned motorboat, fired on the surfboat in which Pratt and Falkingham were riding, considering it a rum runner.

Officials at Gloucester said their men first gave warning signals and then fired when the suspects turned about and failed to halt. The surfboat was struck about 20 times and Falkingham estimated that at least 30 other machine-gun bullets were fired.

Lieutenant Commander L. R. Sands, who directs the first coast guard district from Portsmouth, N. H., will be in charge of tomorrow's inquiry. Officials of the local station and of the base at Gloucester also will participate. The investigators will endeavor to determine responsibility for the death, and will forward recommendations to authorities at Washington.

Maharajah Arrives In America for Visit

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Maharajah of Pithapuram, India, accompanied by his family and retinue of servants, arrived today on the liner Majestic for his first sightseeing tour of the United States.

Included in the party were the maharajah's wife and two sons and four daughters. The women were dressed in colorful native costume. The maharajah declined to discuss the present disturbances in India. He posed with his sons for photographs but refused to include his wife and daughters in the picture.

After four days here the party will go to the Pacific coast.

CAMPBELL MAY FACE TRIAL FOR MURDER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Authorities prepared today for a legal skirmish at a hearing tomorrow to determine whether Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate operator, will be brought to Washington to face trial for the murder of Mary Baker. The hearing will be before United States Commissioner J. Barton Phillips, at Alexandria, Va., where Campbell is now held following his arrest on a federal warrant charging him with the crime.

William H. Collins, assistant United States attorney in charge of the case, conferred today with Alban Jones, of Richmond, Va., an assistant United States attorney. He advised Campbell to insist on the removal of Campbell to Washington without disclosure of all the evidence gathered by the investigators.

Meanwhile Charles Henry Smith, of Alexandria, counsel for Campbell, continued to work for his client's release on the ground that authorities have not established where the slaying took place. He will oppose Campbell's removal tomorrow.

Collins said it probably would be several weeks before the case could be presented to a grand jury because of delay in securing photographs and other data gathered by Major Calvin Godard, in the course of a hearing, who examined Campbell's revolver and identified it as the murder gun.

Nevada Governor Reports Near Violence

LAS VEGAS, Nevada, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Governor Fred Balzar reported to police today that he had a heated discussion last night, the chief executive disarming him before he could shoot.

The governor's account of the incident was verified by James Cashman, county commissioner, who was at the Smith home.

The governor had come here from Carson City to discuss with Smith letters of criticism he had received from the Las Vegas board of trade. He said he found there was no organization such as Smith described in letters he had signed as secretary criticizing the governor for investing in Las Vegas real estate.

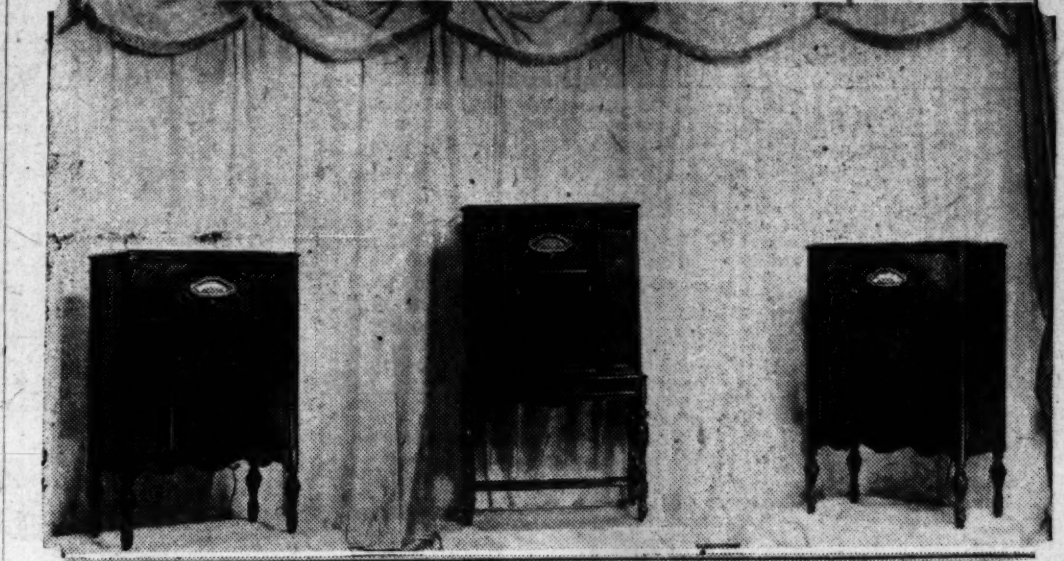

The governor and Cashman said Smith called the chief executive a liar. Balzar, for years sheriff of Mineral county, seized him by the collar.

Smith then drew a revolver, the governor and Cashman said, whereupon the chief executive disarmed him.

Meeting To Discuss Hospital Plan Today

A joint meeting of the ordinance committee and the hospitals and charities committee of council is scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon for a public hearing on a proposal by Councilman George B. Lyle, of the 11th ward, to place Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanatorium under a board of trustees. Councilman Joe Berman, of the fourth ward, chairman of the ordinance committee, Tuesday night said that although the meeting is scheduled today, it may be postponed until Friday.

New Atwater Kent Receivers Demonstrated at Dealer Meeting

New Atwater Kent models at a special pre-showing at the Hotel Biltmore Tuesday night, when the Hopkins Equipment Company, state distributor, was host to dealers from all over Georgia. The new radios were enthusiastically received.

The Hopkins Equipment Company, state distributor of Atwater Kent radios, was host Tuesday night at the Biltmore hotel to Atwater Kent dealers from all over Georgia at a demonstration of the latest Atwater Kent product.

The dealers listened in on a special broadcast over WSB and the National Broadcasting Company network designed to test the qualities of the new set which, because of refinements in reproducing qualities has been named "The Radio With the Golden Voice."

A. Atwater Kent, president of the manufacturing company, talked to the Atlanta dealers via the network and to 26 other dealer meetings in all parts of the nation. He predicted a profitable year for dealers in Atwater Kent radios.

W. D. V. Hopkins, president of the Hopkins Equipment Company, discussed merchandising, credits and collections at the meeting. Others who took up various phases of the industry included E. L. Hollingsworth, southeastern district sales manager, who came here from the factory, and E. H. Edwards, vice president and secretary of the Hopkins Equipment Company.

The new Atwater Kent receiver

uses a circuit incorporating seven A. C. tubes, three of which are screen grid, and a rectifying tube. Other features are four condensers, pots for short and long antenna and dual volume control acting both on amplification and input, thus giving the best operation at a point near or far in relation to the station.

The new circuit is especially improved, the announcement said, for equalizing amplification of the entire broadcasting range. The new special detector circuit makes for far more flexible volume and increased clarity at full volume. A long distance switch is included in the new set.

1921 Bond Group, Allowed To Quit, Will Stay on Job

The 1921 bond commission has a lot of life left in it yet.

Monday afternoon city council passed a resolution allowing the commission to dissolve and turn over its affairs to the 1926 bond body. At a meeting Tuesday, the 1921 commission decided that it will hang on to its job until the work is completed, a matter of six or eight months.

At the request of the commission, Acting Mayor Everett Millican vetoed the council resolution. The 1921 commission, headed by T. C. Erwin, has $200,000 allocated, and contracts on $50,000 of that amount now under way. The bond issue was $8,850,000, for water works, sewers, schools and the Spring street viaduct.

Walter G. Cooper, a member of the commission, Tuesday afternoon tendered his resignation on the ground that he has moved from the seventh to the ninth ward. The commission has turned the resignation over to the water committee and the mayor in an effort to find out if Mr. Cooper can be reappointed.

Baby's 'Walking Tour' Ends in Atlanta Jail

Things got pretty quiet around the home of 2-year-old Betty Ann Bishop Tuesday morning, what with her father, Traffic Officer F. O. Bishop, and her mother both away from home right at that time, so she set out, Goldilocks fashion, to see what she could see. Without telling her grandmother anything about it, Betty Ann left her home at 1159 Indale place, S. W., and began to walk toward town and daddy.

She got as far as Lee and Gordon streets, which is a pretty downtownish part of the city for 2-year-old girls, and Patrolman T. J. Cauthorn discovered her, questioned her and bought her an ice cream cone. Then Betty Ann went down to police headquarters as the guest of the city. "She wasn't a bit tired after her two-mile walk to Gordon and Lee."

Meanwhile Betty Ann's mother returned and the child's disappearance was discovered. When Officer Bishop reached home for lunch he found a togsy-turvy neighborhood, with everybody clamoring for his 2-year-old daughter. Bishop simply telephoned headquarters, and said, "I told you so."

Betty Ann was being entertained at the moment by Mrs. Mamie Hearn, matron. And she didn't get a spanking, either.

Permits Are Obtained For Two Apartments

Two $20,000 apartment houses in two days were recorded at the office of the city building inspector. On Monday, J. R. and W. Williams obtained a permit to build a two-story brick veneer apartment building at 869 Parkway drive, N. E. On Tuesday, G. L. Crandall obtained a permit for a similar building at 206 Eleventh, N. E.

Third Negro Bank Closes in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The third bank patronized or owned by negroes was closed today. The Citizens Trust & Savings bank was ordered shut by the state auditor following a run during which $500,000 was withdrawn.

The first negro bank to close was the Dime State, with deposits of more than $1,200,000. It had frozen real estate assets. The second was the Roosevelt State, with deposits of more than $1,000,000, due to a run by negro depositors.

The Citizens' bank was capitalized at $200,000 and had deposits of about $1,000,000. Negroes had been withdrawing heavily ever since the Dime bank closed. Other nearby banks were affected by heavy negro withdrawals, but all the others seemed able to meet the demands.

Methodists Denounce Racial Prejudice

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Racial prejudice built up by politicians in the hope of gaining votes, was denounced by the Junaluska Methodist assembly in a resolution adopted tonight.

The resolution termed persons who stir up "racial fear and hatred" as "demagogues" and blamed them with doing more harm than good to the group to destroy friendly co-operation between white and colored races in the United States.

"Such appeals to racial prejudice are insincere and dangerous and those who resort to them should be branded enemies of society," the resolution set forth.

The resolution urged adequate facilities for every child "irrespective of race" called upon citizens and governors to do their utmost to prevent lynchings, and in case of mob violence to "bring the perpetrators to justice."

Dr. E. C. Peters, president of Paine College, negro institution in Augusta, Ga., offered the resolution. The school is maintained by the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

CURIOSITY TOO MUCH FOR "REGULATIONS"

OLOMOUC, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Human curiosity among the inhabitants of this town today drew a complaint from Czechoslovakian army authorities who yesterday ordered all the populace to stay indoors while air maneuvers were taking place.

Strict instructions had been given for everyone to stay in his own home while a "red" and a "blue" force of airplanes engaged in mimic warfare overhead.

As soon as the "combat" began the inhabitants trooped out into the streets by hundreds, not only gazing on the forbidden sight, but blocking traffic in the streets and impeding the ground defensive forces.

ONE MAN GIVES $96,750 IN PENNSYLVANIA RACE

Senate Committee Hears Charges of Wholesale Vote Stealing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Testimony regarding an individual contribution of $96,750 to the Davis-Brown cause and charges of fraud and irregularities in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh Harrisburg and Westchester in the Pennsylvania republican primaries last May were laid before the senate campaign funds committee today by more than a dozen witnesses.

The hearing, the last to deal with the Pennsylvania contests, also developed detailed testimony regarding the recount of ballots in the contest between former Governor Pinchot and Francis Shunk Brown for the gubernatorial nomination and its effect on the result which showed Pinchot and Secretary of Labor Davis the respective winners of the gubernatorial and senatorial contests.

Witnesses were divided on the advisability of congress enacting legislation to assist states in the conduct of primaries and elections, but Chairman Nye emphasized before the hearing opened that recommendations would be asked in the committee's first report at the next session.

Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh brick manufacturer, told the committee he contributed voluntarily $96,750 to the Davis-Brown campaign. Questioned by Nye, he denied any of the money was given for promises of state or county brick contracts.

"That's absolutely foolish and tommyrot," Bonitz said. "I've got my own reasons for being in politics."

He said his company had been making fire brick for six years and the total sales in that period to Allegheny county and the state amounted to "only $375,000."

Neither Davis nor Brown solicited any money from him, he said, adding he had been asked to contribute since the primary to make up a deficit, but refused, saying:

"My God, don't you think I've been taken for enough?"

This was the only testimony of the day dealing with contributions or expenditures, the remaining witnesses relating fraud charges and stories of registration of dead men and prisoners, voting of college students and mutilation of ballots.

Baloph H. Frank, Pittsburgh attorney and Pinchot supporter, testified there was a "complete paralysis" in the primary of "all the machinery which ordinarily tends to keep down election disorders."

He said Judge James MacFarlane of common pleas court in Pittsburgh refused to reprimand men he had called before the court for use of firearms at the polls and quoted the judge as having said: "I am a committing magistrate and not a schoolmaster for election officers."

Frank said ballot boxes of the sixth ward, commonly known as "The Strip," were taken to No. 3 police station instead of the county commissioner's office, but that they would "have been safer standing in the middle of the street."

The recount in Allegheny county, he said, would be the most "expensive and the least effective in detecting frauds" of any previous recount.

Charles C. McGovern, member of the Allegheny county returns board and western Pennsylvania manager for Pinchot, testified that for fraud the recent primary in that county was "no exception to any other."

"It's been the custom there to steal from 12,000 to 30,000 votes largely after they are delivered to the county courthouse," he said, adding he hoped the federal government would "in some manner, without invading state rights, help us in Pennsylvania to supervise the primary elections."

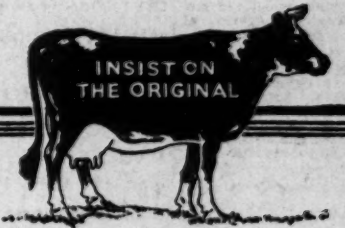

Chairman Nye announced that three special field representatives had been sent to Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., to watch for irregularities in the primary election Thursday.

Police Band To Give 'Serenades' Today

Mounted on the fire tower of the Atlanta fire department's skyscraper equipment, the Atlanta Police band today will visit various parts of the downtown area in a "serenade" heralding the approach of the colossal benefit performance to be staged at Keith's Georgia theater at 12:01 midnight Sunday, for the purpose of raising funds to send the band to Philadelphia for the national convention of the Spanish War Veterans, at which place the band will support the movement to bring to Atlanta the proposed new $3,000,000 veterans' home.

At 11:30 o'clock this morning the band will serenade The Atlanta Constitution at the corner of Alabama and Forsyth streets, playing for an hour at that point. Accompanying the band will be the 12 "Paramount Rockets," beautiful girls of the chorus of the current Paramount Public performance. The "Rockets" are scheduled to appear on the moose program next Sunday night at the Georgia where 20 high-grade vanderbilt acts will comprise the program.

DESIGNED AND BUILT AND SOLD TO GIVE SATISFACTION

There is one characteristic of Oldsmobile and Viking ownership that stands out above all others—thorough satisfaction. And the secret of this all-important characteristic, which is a vital factor in the growing public enthusiasm for these fine cars, can be explained in a few brief words—Oldsmobile and Viking are designed and built and sold, from first to last, to give satisfaction.

They are designed by an engineering staff famed for its creative ability—a staff which has at its disposal all the vast resources of Olds Motor Works and General Motors. Oldsmobile and Viking are built in the modern, fully-equipped factories of Olds Motor Works, where every worker follows one rule—"Anything short of my best is not acceptable."

Oldsmobile and Viking are sold throughout the country by dealers who are in thorough accord with Oldsmobile-Viking ideals and the Oldsmobile-Viking policy pledged to progress. They sell their products as Olds Motor Works designs and builds them—frankly, honestly, and sincerely.

These are reasons why Oldsmobile and Viking owners speak with such enthusiasm of their cars. And these are sound reasons why you should see and drive Oldsmobile and Viking yourself.

GOD'S APPOINTMENT—God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, Who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.—1 Thess. 5:9, 10.

PRAYER—"God's purposes will ripen fast, unfolding every hour."

NOW, TO BUSINESS!

With only about a month ahead of their going to the polls in the September primary the voters are waking up to the serious importance of what they are to do when they go to the ballot-boxes.

They realize now that their supreme duty is to name a governor and legislators who promise ability and skill to deal with the crucial problem of the state's finances. The immediate stability and prosperity of the state depend upon the prompt settlement of its debts and the adjustment of its fiscal policy for the future to a cash on demand basis.

That is a salient job for statesmanship and business capacity. It is one that will affect vitally the welfare of every inhabitant of the state. It must be dealt with quickly, courageously, patriotically, and with sound principles of fiscal economy.

The people want light, wisdom and speedy relief from debt and state distress.

There are five candidates for the governorship. They are all honorable and trustworthy gentlemen, long connected with public service, and whose characters and records are well known to the people of the commonwealth. They gain nothing of value to themselves, or to the reputation of the state, by carrying on a campaign of personal charges and counter-charges.

The man in the street, in the store, in the field, is not interested in what they think of each other. They will all of them do better by paying attention to what the people are actually thinking about—and that is how to pay the state deficits, equalize the burdens of taxation, to do the state's business with the same care and economy as other great businesses are conducted.

From now on the candidates should cut out their criticisms and abuse of each other's alleged past derelictions. Those thrashings of the air attract no audiences and interest no sensible responsible people.

But an earnest and appealing advocacy of a feasible concrete plan to pay the aggravating debts to the poor creditors of the state, to rescue the state's credit, and to restore the state's business to solvency, will draw large and eager crowds to hear a Moses who can lead them through the Red Sea of insolvency to the promised land of competency and new prosperities.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

The "Bachot."

Once more it has been said this year that a number of candidates for the baccalaureate—roughly equivalent to a university matriculation in America—were able to be informed of many of the questions before they entered the room to answer them. The name of the paper, in France the "bachot," which is a certificate of proficiency at the end of a lycée education, is regarded as such a very serious matter that the fact that anyone can obtain it by fraud causes a great deal of indignation and this indignation is all the stronger, since the leakage has occurred not in one of the 16 provincial faculties, but in the faculty of Paris, which contains many students as all the others put together. How seriously the bachot is taken, free press and free conscience have been found a menace to the bachot. The bachot is taken in a room in a lycée, where—where is the place in a center of the lycée industry—all the inscriptions are on porcelain medallions. These are the names of a boy of 17, and is followed by these words: "Your parents forgive you for having failed in your baccalaureate."

Sicilian Mafia.
The Mafia trial in Sicily provides the former sentence of a man in the high official status held by some of the prisoners, says a London dispatch. They belong to the village. One of the ring leaders was for several years the mayor of Villafra in which official capacity he "regulated" the criminal life of the neighborhood; another was Syndic of Lucera, a third agent was parish priest of Burgio. Operations were conducted by large family groups who waged a kind of Kilkenny cat war of destruction and aggression. The heads of the mafia at Lucera were the four Genova brothers, who, having accounted for a number of their enemies, were in their turn shot down by the victims' relatives. One brother managed to escape for some years by never leaving his own house, but was entrusted with the "vendetta" got at him at last by disguising himself as a mason come to mend the roof and shot him down in his kitchen. In 1922 twelve of the Villafra gang disguised themselves as carabinieri and accomplished the slaughter at a lonely farmhouse of an entire family of eight people, including a boy of 13. The trial is expected to last at least six months.

Ten Thousand Beggars.
Though mendacity is a well-known nuisance in the cities of the Near East, Stambul can now rank above them as the city of ten thousand beggars, according to the Observer. Many of them exercise mendacity as a regular profession, sometimes owning houses and other kinds of property, while others, especially gypsies, can by their nature hardly imagine any other mode of existence. The latter are utterly poor, they are often peasants who left their homes in search of work, and failed to find any. The mendacious beggars, on the other hand, number of children now grow up in the habit of begging. Raids are made by the municipal police in the most populous streets. They pay the children together into carts and take them to the poorhouse. Those who are strangers to the town are handed over to their place of origin, and the professional mendacious beggars, while work is sought for those whom only unemployment and want have reduced to this state. Three thousand of them were arrested in the course of last year.

WELL DONE—MONTGOMERY!
Reports of the gathering of more than a thousand of the best citizens of Montgomery county in a great mass meeting to protest the recent beating to death in that county of an aged and respected negro, is conclusive evidence of the attitude of the people of that section towards the activities of hooded barbarians. Prominent citizens from every walk of life participated in the Mt. Vernon meeting, raising their voices in stern protest against allowing the perpetrators of the outrage to go unpunished. It was perhaps the most representative gathering that ever assembled in the county. Resolutions decrying in scathing terms all acts of violence, and demanding "direct and definite action by officers of the law . . . that crimes of this nature may be stamped out and a higher standard of civilization be raised in this section of Georgia," told plainly of the temper of these good citizens.

The fact that Montgomery is one of the state's smallest counties makes more significant the size of this outpouring of her upright and clean-thinking citizens. At a time when the oratory of political candidates is attracting audiences of only a hundred or so people, this affront to the good name of their county and section brought together a crowd of more than a thousand.

Such public expressions as those of the people of Montgomery are, thankfully for the good name of the state, causing such deprecations, committed by a vicious element comprising only a small per cent of the state's population to grow less frequent as the years go by. The citizens of Montgomery are to be congratulated on the prompt and emphatic manner in which they have struck at the threat of mob law within the borders of their county.

THE TENNESSEE PRIMARY.
The Tennessee primary will be held on Thursday and bring to a conclusion the rather lively democratic contests over the governorship and United States senatorships. There has been as evident general apathy upon the part of the voters in Tennessee as there is yet in Georgia. Political and business leaders, however, are taking on a livelier interest and the polling on Thursday may show a deeper interest of the people than appears upon the surface of the closing primary campaign.

National interest in the Tennessee primary will center in the nomination for United States senator to succeed the late Senator Tyson. There are two in the field, Cordell Hull, veteran congressman and formerly a chairman of the democratic national committee, and Mr. Todd, a banker-farmer businessman, who has made an active and attacking campaign against Mr. Hull. The colleagues of the latter for the past 20 years of congress will watch the outcome of the Thursday voting with intense interest. Democratic party leaders are strongly desirous to see the Volunteer state that has given three democratic presidents to the nation return this year a democratic majority that will indicate the state's permanent return to her old Jacksonian alignment and loyalty.

The hour has arrived to get down to the meat and bone of the state's financial troubles, without further evasions and without future dodging the hard facts. The people want the debts paid and the credit honor of the state restored. They will doubt the efficiency and sufficiency of any

LOOKING AND LISTENING

The Temple Must Be Defended Before the Torch Is Applied.

The invasion of this country by the agents of organized foreign communism is giving rise to questions of personal freedom on the one hand and national security on the other. The one hand will call for profound study and definition of the rights of the citizen—and that right soon. The other hand, the liberal tolerance and treatment of the rights of the citizen to free speech, free press and free conscience have been found a menace to the bachot. The bachot is taken in a room in a lycée, where—where is the place in a center of the lycée industry—all the inscriptions are on porcelain medallions. We Live In Another Age.
In the days of Jefferson, Madison, Tom Paine and other apostles of the "rights of Man" they had no conception of modern communism—a so-called "third international"—functioning as a government with a chief objective to tear down all other forms of civilized government by revolution and substitute among all peoples the communistic form as it now operates dictatorially in Russia. It would take a contentions imagination to picture the present-day communistic propaganda—spread abroad by cunning or eluded agents, and as dangerous to the American welfare as the losing campaign of a myriad of typhoid-carrier human beings.

Spurious Claims of Freedom.
Those persons—pink-eyed parlor and pulpit communists and red-eyed alien seditionists—who claim that in denouncing our form of government and advocating a revolution to exalt to power the proletariat, they are exercising the guaranteed American rights of free speech, free opinions and free conscience, are "forgers of lies and all false physicians," to appropriate a scriptural description. One familiar with the sentiments and acts of Jefferson, so freely referred to by those bolshevik dupes, can well think of him describing Lenin, Trotsky and Stalin in much the same terms of Napoleon. He said of that disturber of the peace of the world that he was "in civil life a cold-blooded, unprincipled, unscrupulous, without a virtue; no statesman, knowing nothing of commerce, political economy, or civil government, and supplying ignorance by bold presumption."

While he had sworn "eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the free people of the world," he was a cold-blooded, unprincipled, unscrupulous, without a virtue; no statesman, knowing nothing of commerce, political economy, or civil government, and supplying ignorance by bold presumption.

A Merry Night in This Day of Peace and Christian Civilization

(From The Macon Telegraph.)
The high school as it is naughty, naughty, to play cards. Even Bishop Cannon would say so, although he might reserve this pastime for his own delectation while denying it to others, as he has done in other matters comparable or worse.

But be the opinion of the crusading and militant bishops what it may, Lamar Patterson has to thank his stars lucky or otherwise that the Macon, Ga., city of the future has been engaged to the charming marriage of his son, Doug Fairbanks, to a girl named Mary. (We're funny like that, here.)

Well, to make a long story short, Henri, the son of Doug Fairbanks, and his gallant statements worthy of a Bayard, regarding the future of himself and Gloria Swanson.

It will be as Miss Swanson said, "I believe the Macon, Ga., city of the future has been engaged to the charming marriage of his son, Doug Fairbanks, to a girl named Mary. (We're funny like that, here.)

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 5.—Hollywood is busy this morning waiting for Doug Fairbanks to return home from his trip to Europe. The big subject in question is whether or not Gloria will remain a marriage. Or if the crown will be bestowed on the charming marriage of his son, Doug Fairbanks, to a girl named Mary. (We're funny like that, here.)

Well, to make a long story short, Henri, the son of Doug Fairbanks, and his gallant statements worthy of a Bayard, regarding the future of himself and Gloria Swanson.

HERE IS HOW THE STATES RANK.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The first complete list of preliminary totals of state populations, as compiled from official returns of census supervisors throughout the country, was completed tonight.

The compilation, by Associated Press bureaus, shows 1930 rank, the 1920 rank and the numerical increase since 1920.

Jackson, O'Brien 200 Hours From Record

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—(P)—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien today had less than 200 hours to go to better the world's record for refueling endurance flying set last month at Chicago by the Hunter brothers with a sustained flight of approximately 554 hours. At 8:11 a. m. (central standard time) today Jackson and O'Brien had been up 361 hours in their monoplane Greater St. Louis and were still going strong.

Over the radio yesterday O'Brien repeated the fliers' intention of remaining up a month and added that this would be his last endurance flight.

10 INCUMBENTS WIN IN KENTUCKY VOTING

Vinson's Defeat of Fields Only Upset in Congress Races.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5.—(P)—Ten of Kentucky's eleven present congressmen who were defeated in the republican landslide of 1928, will be among the 18 candidates seeking election to the national house of representatives in November.

The only upset in the primary was the overwhelming defeat by approximately three votes to one of former Governor William J. Fields by former Congressman Fred M. Vinson in the democratic primary in the ninth district. E. R. Kendall, republican incumbent, was unopposed.

Incumbents in all districts were returned either by victories in the primary or by nomination without opposition except L. L. Walker, republican, eighth district, who was not a candidate to succeed himself.

Results of Saturday's primary, as tabulated from unofficial returns, and the nomination without party opposition of nine congressional candidates, made the following lineup today for November:

First District—W. V. Gregory, democrat, incumbent, no opposition.

Second District—David H. Kincheloe, democrat, incumbent, no opposition.

Third District—John W. Moore, democrat, incumbent, no opposition.

Fourth District—Captain R. Carden, democrat; J. D. Craddock, republican, no opposition.

Fifth District—Maurice H. Thatcher, republican, incumbent, no opposition.

Sixth District—Brent Spence, democrat; J. Lincoln Newhall, republican, incumbent. Spence unopposed in primary. Newhall defeated Mrs. Marie C. Haller in primary, polling 3,763 votes to 1,064.

Seventh District—Virgil Chapman, democrat; Robert Blackburn, republican, incumbent. Chapman defeated L. C. Lettrel in primary, receiving 10,816 votes to 2,963 in 321 out of 368 precincts. Blackburn defeated Mrs. Minerva Allen, receiving 4,580 votes to 1,175 in 321 out of 368 precincts.

Eighth District—Ralph Gilbert, democrat; Patrick H. Taylor, republican, incumbent. Gilbert received 7,992 votes in 285 out of 286 precincts, defeating O. P. Jackson and Thomas J. Reed, who received 3,391 and 351, respectively. Taylor was unopposed in primary.

Ninth District—Fred M. Vinson, democrat; Elva R. Kendall, republican, incumbent. Vinson defeated William J. Fields and W. C. Hamilton in the primary, the three candidates receiving respective votes of 17,224, 6,028 and 4,370 in 452 out of 465 precincts. Kendall was unopposed in the primary.

Tenth District—A. J. May, democrat; Mrs. Katherine Langley, republican, incumbent. May received 3,865 votes in 224 out of 322 precincts, defeating D. Glenn Sublette and J. C. Goldiron, who received 968 and 616, respectively. Mrs. Langley defeated D. H. Baker and Hector Johnson, polling 5,491 votes in 222 out of 222 precincts to 725 for Johnson and 634 for Baker.

Eleventh District—W. W. Duffield, democrat; Charles Finley, republican, incumbent. Duffield polled 883 votes in 379 out of 540 precincts to lead Arthur Rhorer, 559; T. R. McBrayer, 523; H. F. Reed, 480; and T. W. Gallagher, 332. Finley received 22,441 votes in 490 out of 540 precincts to defeat Judge William Lewis, who received 18,057; Godfrey I. Rader, 129; and H. L. Taylor, 920 votes.

Gilbert, Chapman and Vinson are the three former democratic congressmen who are seeking to regain the seats they lost in the republican landslide two years ago.

Candidates for United States senator are: M. M. Logan and Ben Williamson, democrats, for the long and short terms, respectively; and John M. Robison, republican, incumbent, candidate for both the long and short terms. All were without primary opposition.

Paper Revives Royal Scandal Of Past Century

VIENNA, Aug. 5.—(P)—A series of remarkable notes concerning the death of Crown Prince Rudolf, who was found dead in his hunting lodge at Mayerling with the young Baroness Marie Vecsica in 1889, has been published in a Vienna newspaper.

The material, prepared by Count Josef Hoyos, who was with the crown prince on the fatal night, says Rudolf shot his sweetheart through the head and then, with the aid of a hand mirror, looked into his bed, guided his aim toward himself.

Count Hoyos says Rudolf was obsessed with the idea of suicide some time before the tragedy, and had uttered his thoughts to the Archdukes Franz Otto and Friedrich, to Duke Don Miguel of Braganza, and to the painter, Franz Paulinger.

The baroness, too, adds the memoirs, wrote to their former governess and friend confessing everything concerning her relations with the crown prince and hinting suicide. Her father, writing to her mother said:

We both are already very curious to see how the next world appears. The newspaper which published these notes, written by the man who ordered the death of the fatal chamber burst in 41 years ago, dispel the many romantic stories concerning the tragedy. One of these was that a jealous forger had buried in the head of the heir apparent; another was that Baron Baltazzi, uncle of Marie, had shot Rudolf.

Apartment House Men Form New Group Here

Organization of an apartment house division of the Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers took place Tuesday at a joint meeting of representatives of apartment house agencies and officers of the Atlanta association at a luncheon meeting at the Ansley hotel.

Three hundred and six of Atlanta's finest apartment buildings with approximately 4,300 units were represented at the meeting, and formed membership of the new division, as follows: Cumberland Realty & Loan Company, Burdett Realty Company, Adair Realty & Loan Company, Hallman-Whitten Company, F. P. and George J. Morris, J. H. Ewing & Sons, Rankin-Whitten Realty Company, Beardsell Investment Company, Turman-Brown Company and Lipscomb-Weyman-Chapman Company.

Paul D. Reid, of the Cumberland Realty & Loan Company, was elected chairman of the newly formed division. Harry H. Hinton, of Hallman-Whitten Company, and W. J. Hogan, Jr., of Rankin-Whitten Realty Company, were elected executive committee members. A number of committees were named.

C. F. Wilkinson, president; S. S. Gibbs, vice president; Will R. Beck, treasurer, and Fred Shaefer, secretary of the Atlanta association, all made short talks welcoming the apartment house agencies into the association, and perfecting organization of the new division.

Charles Wickersham Is Returned to Home

Charles A. Wickersham, president of the Atlanta & West Point railroad, who underwent an appendicitis operation at St. Joseph's sanitarium three weeks ago, has returned to his home at 3200 Peachtree road.

Members of the family announced Tuesday that Mr. Wickersham has been recovering his strength steadily. During his confinement in the sanitarium the well-known Atlanta railroad chief received tokens of friendship from acquaintances and prominent railroad executives throughout the country.

Mrs. Dull To Reveal Biscuit-Baking Art

Old fashioned southern hot biscuit—the kind that are so delicious when properly made, and such a dismal failure when attempted by the inexperienced—will be the principal subject of Mrs. S. R. Dull's cooking demonstration for the Atlanta Gas Light Company's natural gas cooking school today. Other dishes which will be demonstrated are: real croquettes, French fried potatoes, frozen parfait and cocoa muffins. The session will begin promptly at 10 a. m.

Additional seating arrangements, together with voice amplification devices made necessary by the unexpectedly large audience which heard Mrs. Dull Tuesday were hurriedly being installed Tuesday night and will be available for the remainder of the sessions, which will be today, Thursday and Friday morning at the gas company building at Peachtree and Harris streets.

Two novelty dishes, "cannon of lamb chops" and "meringue of frosty morning" were presented for the first time by Mrs. Dull Tuesday, and attracted much interest. Other dishes comprised a complete model luncheon menu. They were: frozen fruit salad, mofit of carrots, broiled lamb chops, toast and baked Alaska.

John A. Metcalf Enlarges Store

John A. Metcalf announces the addition of boys' and children's clothing to the line of goods at his Mitchell and Forsyth street store, which he has recently increased to three times its original size.

The store was opened 10 months ago and, under the management of Fred Schubach, has shown remarkable growth, according to Mr. Metcalf, which accounts for increasing its size. As soon as the remodeling is finished, Mr. Metcalf will also place a line of goods in the basement at this location, occupying half an acre of ground. He says that he expects to have the basement open for business early in October.

An interesting feature of the store is a painting covering the entire length of one of the side walls entitled, "60 Years of Progress," depicting Mr. Metcalf's career. It shows the log cabin in Gallia county, near Gallipolis, Ohio, where he was born in 1860, and covers various events in his life, including his establishment in business here.

Superior Baking Co. Buys Pensacola Plant

The Superior Baking Company, with general offices in Atlanta, has taken over Hughie's bakery, located at Pensacola, Fla. It was announced Wednesday. Including the plant just contracted for, the company operates four bakeries, the others being at Knoxville, Tenn.; Johnson City, Tenn.; and Valdosta, Ga.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—Case of the "Gloria Scott"

The supply of game for London is going steadily up. Had kept Hudson, who has been now told to receive all orders for fly paper and for preservation of your hen pheasants' life.

"I feared that certain phrases might have a pre-arranged significance, so their meaning would be arbitrary, and could not be deduced in any way. And then in an instant the key of the riddle was in my hands, and I saw that every third word, beginning with the first, would give a message that would drive old Trevor to despair. I read the message to the son."

Puzzle Solved

"Victor Trevor sent his face in his shaking hand. The note is undoubtedly from Beddoes," I said to Trevor. "It only remains for us to find out what this secret was which Hudson held over the heads of these wealthy and respected men."

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

"Alas, Holmes," Trevor said, "I fear it is one of the shame. Here is the statement drawn up by my father. I found it in the Japanese cabinet as he told the doctor. Take it and read it to me."

State Will Build on Site
OLD PARSONS HOUSE TO MAKE WAY FOR HIGHWAY BUILDING
Once Center of Social Whirl

Where a generation ago the social life of Georgia's capital city moved and had its being, the state will, on September 1, begin the erection of a modern, two-story office building of reinforced concrete and limestone exterior finish to house the various activities of the Georgia highway commission.

In purchasing property fronting both on Capitol square and Capitol avenue, Governor Hardman bought for the state the old Parsons home facing the capitol, along with two three-story apartment houses adjoining. The residence, built by the late Dr. J. F. Rozeau, one-time state treasurer, will be demolished, as will one of the apartment houses. The second apartment house will be used to house the laboratories of the highway commission and the fertilizer division of the state department of agriculture.

Ownership of the Rozeau property was transmitted to Mrs. W. H. Parsons, who lived there for many years, and later to Mrs. Marion Jackson. The Jacksons have not lived in the old home, though, since 1907.

The new highway office building will front 90 feet on Capitol square and 150 feet on Capitol avenue, and will be occupied by all departments, including the office of Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman, except the laboratory. The branches now at East Point will be moved into the city about November 1, when work is expected to be completed.

The office building will be of an "L" shape with a basement. The state board of health, which now occupies the old dwelling house, will be moved into the basement of the capitol proper and occupy the space which will be vacated by the fertilizer division.

'Bishop Murder Case'
Thriller at Empire

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-talking adaptation of S. S. Van Dine's best seller, "The Bishop Murder Case," will be today's screen feature at the Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Crow street. Those who like excitement in their "talkies" should not miss this thrilling film.

Starring Basil Rathbone, Leila Hyams and Roland Young, the plot centers about Philo Vance, the detective, who is called to investigate the murder of Joseph Cochrane Robin, found dead with an arrow through his heart.

Beautiful Billie Dove, in her latest all-talking picture, "The Other Tomorrow," will be the main attraction Thursday.

DICTATORSHIP SEEN

AS POSSIBILITY IN U. S.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 5.—(UN)—Possibility of a dictatorship in the United States was viewed by former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, in his address before the Institute of Public Affairs here tonight.

"We would be blind if we did not recognize the fact that an assault is being made upon representative government all along the line," Lowden asserted.

He quoted numerous authorities in picturing how this attack is undermining self-government in Europe, adding that "in our present mood, the people of this country are not impressed with the solemn warning."

"We assume," he said, "that whatever may happen to other nations, we are secure. Can we be sure, however, even here in America, that we still hold our ancient faith in the cause of self-government? Visitors returning from Europe feel compelled to applaud achievements of Mussolini, though he has overthrown the representative system of a great country."

"It is true that self-government had failed in Italy when Mussolini had seized the reins of government and that she seemed on the verge of anarchy. In other countries of the old world these dictators have not only planted constitutional government there was the same imminence of disaster. The mournful fact remains that self-government had proven unequal to the strain that was placed upon it."

"The lesson from all this is that popular government, if it is to endure, must acquire and maintain an efficiency in government superior to that of any autocrat. If the people cannot themselves maintain an orderly government and cannot through constitutional means secure social justice to the great body of the people, autocracy in some form is bound to come."

Lowden said he still believed representative government superior to any other on earth, but he could not close his eyes "to the fact that it is now on the defensive."

He said that the "Hell's Island" feature picture at the Fox this week, brings back to the screen two of the boldest of these dictators, "Submarine" and "Flight." Ralph Graves and Jack Holt, but this time the feminine lure of the story is played by Dorothy Sebastian.

Graves and Holt are two soldiers in the French Foreign Legion, stationed near Algiers, and taking part in the suppression of the Rif uprisings. The story carries them through many thrilling incidents and ends in an escape from "Hell's Island"—the prison for insubordinate legionnaires.

The stage presentation is Fanchon and Marco's "Manilla Bound" idea, and is one of the most beautiful yet to play the Fox, featuring Fox funny artists and six dancers from Mexico, the Romero family, in a whirlwind of beauty, color and gracefulness.

Longest Dance Marathon

HEALTH OF TWO COUPLES NEAR BREAKING POINT

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The longest dance marathon the world has ever known drew close to a health-shattering end tonight.

On April 11 last, when the trees were just beginning to bud, Promoter C. A. Pressey started the marathon in a local public ballroom. Two couples still were hobnobbing tonight to the energetic tunes of a shirt-tail orchestra almost 3,000 hours later.

Tired to exhaustion they were, with swollen hands, calloused feet, and backs they could not keep erect.

Blonde Ann Gerry, who must have been pretty before the marathon started, clung to the neck of Mike Gouvas, who, despite haggard eyes, standing up, Plump Theresa Zito, so weary her knees sagged, leaned on Jack Ritoff, scarcely moving within a roped-off square, hardly larger than a boxing ring.

Glaring lights beat down. The perspiring orchestra pounded out a constant rat-tat-tat. In the gloom sat some 8,000 persons, principally women, waiting for the final and complete collapse of one or another of the dancers.

The spectators tossed money onto the floor, nickels, pennies and dimes. Ann and Mike and Theresa and Jack stopped dancing, scrambled for the coins. But their eyes were weary, their hands stiff, the coins elusive.

"Come awn," howled a husky man with a time clock. "Get back to work, you kids."

They gripped each other in stolid clasps and to the boom-de-boom-boom of the band, tried to dance. But their feet would not co-ordinate with the music. They stepped on each other, bumped into the ropes and veered into the roped-off square.

Finally a siren screamed. They stumbled to a row of beds and crawled in, clothes, shoes and all. Chiropractors removed their slippers, worked frantically with lotions, plasters and knives.

The siren screamed again five minutes later, and back they went to 55 minutes more of dancing or rather of trying to keep from falling to the floor.

They started out with 20 minutes' rest an hour, then 15, then 10. Finally the time was reduced to five minutes and that is all the rest they have had for the last eight days.

They were trading their health for $3,000, to be divided among them when finally one or another of their bodies refuse to be driven further.

The orchestra blared "I Can't Give You Anything But Love." Ann and Mike and Theresa and Jack went back to work. The 8,000 spectators cheered.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(P)—Agitation for the splendor and glory of a uniform with plumed hat and sword for American diplomats has again sprung up among foreign service officers.

The discussion was brought about by an article in The American Foreign Service Journal, official organ of the organization to which virtually all foreign service officers, including consuls and diplomats belong.

Admitting the subject to be a delicate one, the Journal merely reported without comment correspondence submitted on the question. Time and again in recent years, uniforms for the diplomats, with the rank of the individual, have been the subject of gold braid showing. Ambassadors have the most resplendent ones, often with nearly as much braid as coat material.

In the American service, however, no diplomatic uniforms are permitted so ambassadors and ministers to many countries which adhere to the old traditions must wear full evening dress when calling at the place even during the morning. Some American diplomats have evaded the ban, however, by securing commissions in the army or navy, or other service reserves and appearing at various functions in military uniforms.

The state department as early as 1901 permitted its consuls and vice consuls to wear a naval uniform, even though they never had been in the navy, fifteen years later these regulations were amended to prescribe a more distinctive outfit. In 1906 this was cancelled and it was directed that henceforth diplomats who had served as officers of the union army during the civil war might wear their uniforms, but that others would have to wear civilian clothes. The regulation still is in effect, but is sometimes flouted by diplomats who are permitted to wear uniforms on state occasions is that any such display might draw popular criticism as being repugnant to republican ideas.

Yellowed by age, the original plates of the finely prescribed many years ago by the department are carefully preserved among the archives in case uniforms return some day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(P)—Four children were dead of burns today following a fire caused by a child's prank at a motion picture here on Sunday night. Of 23 injured when one of the children touched a match to a pile of film, six others were not expected to live and the remainder were seriously burned.

"BLAZING HOT" NO JOKE IN THIS INSTANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(UN)—Ernest Schmidt, 230 pounds, sat at the window of his sixth floor room overlooking the bowery today and fainted himself.

"It's hot," said Mr. Schmidt to himself. In fact, he mused, it was so all-fired hot that he could almost smell smoke.

Robins Break Record in Ten To Out-Rally Giants and Win, 9-8

BIRDS EXTENDED TO BEAT GIANTS IN GREAT GAME

Terry Leads McGraw's Crew in Valiant But Vain Struggle.

By George Kirksey.

United News Staff Writer.

EBERTS FIELD, BROOKLYN. Aug. 5.—(U.N.)—After a spectacular 10-inning battle, the Brooklyn Robins finally emerged victorious over the New York Giants today, 9-8, and gained an even break in the crucial four-game series between the two National League pennant contenders.

An attempt at strategy in the ninth inning proved costly for the Giants and wiped out their smashing ninth-inning rally which netted five runs and enabled them to tie the score, 8-8.

John J. McGraw took Joe Evers, the brilliant relief pitcher, out of the game for a pinch hitter in the tenth inning after he had retired the Robins in order in the ninth, and Bill Wainwright, Giants' southpaw, who had won the opening game of the series, was unable to stop the Brooklyn attack in the tenth inning.

Bob O'Farrell, who batted for Evers, grounded out, and then with two down the Giants forged ahead by scoring two runs on Fred Lindstrom's double which scored Critz and Leach.

A hero one minute, Lindstrom was made the goat of the game before it was over. He tried to score from second on Terry's single off Wright's glove, but was thrown out, Wright to Lopez. Then in the Robins' tenth Terry made a costly error at a critical moment.

With one down in the tenth, the Robins began their rally. Red Bissomette doubled to left, stopped at third after Lopez singled, and scored as Lindstrom fumbled Bressler's grounder. Jake Flowers drove in Lopez with the tying run with a single and Eddie Moore, batting for Phelps, came through with a sacrifice fly to Leach, Bressler scoring after the catch.

Terry was the hitting star of the game, making five hits out of six times at bat and taking the major league batting leadership away from Chuck Klein of the Phillies, who went hitless.

REEL CO. RALLY TO BEAT MACKS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The Boston Red Sox took the final of the four-game series with the Athletics today, staging one-run rallies in the eighth and ninth innings, they beat the world champions, 4 to 3.

Phil Todd's home run in the eighth tied the score and in the ninth Eddie Durst made a double for the fourth safety and scored the winning run on a single by Otis Miller, who batted for Regan.

Durst pitched cleverly for the Sox, but was relieved in the ninth by two on and one out. Al Simmons and Jimmy Fox hit successive homers in the tenth inning.

Literary Digest Features Constitution Writers in Jones Tribute

ED DANFORTH, FARRELL, RICE STORIES USED

Dispatches From Interlachen and Home-Coming Descriptions Quoted.

By Ralph McGill.

Selections from The Atlanta Constitution's reports of Bobby Jones' play in the national open golf tournament at Interlachen, written by Ed Danforth, sports editor of The Constitution, and from The Constitution's news report of the welcome home by J. A. Farrell, occupy the major portion of The Literary Digest's resume of "The Coronation of the Emperor Jones," in the current issue.

Mr. Danforth's vivid description of Jones' play captivated Atlantans and selection of his work by the Digest was further testimony that it was among the finest golf written at Interlachen.

THREE WRITERS. The Digest selected three writers from which to take the description of Jones' play. They were, in addition to Mr. Danforth, Milt Davis, in the Minneapolis Tribune, and Grantland Rice, of the North American Newspaper Alliance. Mr. Rice's stories also appeared in The Constitution.

The lead of the Digest's article was taken from the report of Jones' welcome home as it appeared in The Constitution the morning following the tremendous welcome given the golf champion. It was written by Mr. Farrell, of the reportorial staff.

This was quoted at length to show the scope of Atlanta's welcome as pictured in The Constitution.

INTERLACHEN REPORTS. The Digest devoted considerable space to the reports sent from Interlachen, using material from two of Mr. Danforth's dispatches and from two by Mr. Davis and one by Mr. Rice.

After a sketch of the final round, the Digest continues as follows: As Ed Danforth, sports editor of Bobby's home town Constitution, relates in a Minneapolis dispatch:

"He was still 40 feet from the cup. Between him and the cup was an undulation. This time Bobby did not wait for quiet. While the throng was rushing up behind him, closing in for the kill, Bobby stood over his ball and smashed it hard with 'Calamity Jane.' Up the slope the ball climbed, out across the green into the sunlight it raced, and scurried into the cup for a birdie 3. Pandemonium broke loose. It was a championship finish.

"The heart that would not break had tipped the clubs with fire. The crowd was overwhelmed with the melodrama of the finish. The 3 gave him a 75. The 75 gave him a 287.

Williams Pays $2 To See Self Play

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(UN)—R. Norris Williams, the 2nd, an outstanding figure in the tennis world for the last 20 years, was forced to pay $2 to see himself play here today.

The tall Philadelphia, one-time national champion and a man whose name is one of the most honored in tennis, was stopped at the gate and refused admission until the fee was paid. Williams argued but the gatekeeper refused to yield.

Williams, once inside the grounds, proceeded to defeat Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2 in the feature second-round match of the Meadow Club's annual tournament.

The 287 gave him a championship.

Nobody seems to doubt that when September comes Master Bobby will walk off with the national amateur crown, making it unanimous, as it were, and quadrupling his empire over world golf.

It is pointed out that none of the amateurs in the open tournament caused him any sleepless nights.

No, it was the pros who bothered him. Their anti-Jones solidarity is dwelt upon in another of Mr. Danforth's Constitution dispatches, thus:

"Bobby figuratively had been put on 'he spot' by the most powerful professionals in the paring game. They had sworn to get him this time in the narrow winding fairways of this northwestern course. The amateur too long had hijacked their precious prize, the open crown. That is worth $50,000 to any professional who wins it, and only so much glory to the amateur.

"The professionals sent word of their intentions. They were well armed and trained to the minute. And grimly carrying their threats into effect they hemmed him in with a ring of scores in the first two rounds. As the day came for the final struggle, Bobby Jones was surrounded by at least a dozen great men of golf, any of whom was within easy range and was equipped with all needed weapons.

"Bobby saw his plight. He backed in his corner, drew his rods, and out of the cul-de-sac he strode. Destruction spewed from one hand, and discouragement spat from the other. Bobby got the jump on them and drove them away in sickening disorder."

An editorial appearing in The Atlanta Journal and another from the Washington Post is also partially reproduced in "The Coronation of the Emperor Jones."

The Digest issue containing the article is in the August 2 issue and is now on the news stands. The thousands of Constitution readers who enjoyed Danforth's stories will be pleased to see the national publicity given them in The Digest.

BACK AGAIN. Paul Esterling, slugging sensation of three years ago, is back with the Tigers again.

HARPER RULES FAVORITE OVER CHARLEY FOX

Veteran, With More Experience, Is Able Foe. Steinborn on Card.

Wrestling fans have already started getting tickets for the return of Paul Harper, the sensational young Texan, who will return to the Atlanta ring on Monday night with Charley Fox, the Cleveland Tiger, as his opponent. Atlanta seems to like Texans—Paul Jones and Paul Harper being especially favored. Harper, who has wrestled here several times, has been out of the ring for a time and his Atlanta match will be one of the few he has had since his return.

Trouble with his eyes forced him out. On recovery he went into training and is coming back stronger than ever. He is the youngest man in the mat game and rated as a sure championship contender within the next year or two.

To see him in action is to witness physical perfection. He has an escape from an arm lock that is the envy of all wrestlers.

Charley Fox, the hard-boiled egg, is another favorite here. He has had more experience than Harper but the youngster will be a slight favorite.

A substitution has been made in the semi-windup. Abe Kaplan, Jewish champion, found it impossible to escape from a match in Canada, John Spellman, coach at Brown University, and one of the smartest men in the game, will meet Milo Steinborn in the one-hour match.

Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters and at the Candler building soda fountain.

Maynard, Howard Enter Decatur Finals

Nelson Maynard won his way to the junior finals in annual Decatur tennis tournament Tuesday, with a three-set victory over Hansford Sams. It was the longest match of the tournament and required more than four hours to complete. Maynard was two sets down and on the short end of a 5-to-4 count, in the third set, when he rallied and took the next three sets and the match. The scores were 3-6, 3-6, 8-6, 6-2, 12-10.

He will meet Pierre Howard, present junior champion Thursday at 3 o'clock on the Thompson court, on Atlanta avenue, for the 1930 junior title.

The mixed doubles final and a men's doubles semi-final match will be played this afternoon. Murphy Candler, Jr., and Polly Jones will meet Pierre Howard and Mary Emily Thompson in the mixed doubles championship match. It will be played at 5 o'clock on the Thompson court.

Lefty Bryan Wins From Seeded Star

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Laruping "Lefty" Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., today sprang the first upset in the Kentucky state tennis tournament by defeating William Martin, Jr., St. Louis, 6-3, 7-5, in a display of brilliant tennis.

Martin was the only seeded star to fall. George O'Connell, Chicago, No. 2, defeated Norbert Bonoff, Louisville, 6-2, 6-0. Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., almost met a Tartar in Wiley Van Wagner, Louisville, but managed to eke out by 6-4, 7-5.

John Hennessy, Indianapolis, seeded No. 1, failed to appear and was defaulted.

Monte Tiller, Louisville, defeated Ran Shields, Washington and Lee, 6-3, 7-5; Julius Szalowski, Indianapolis, defeated Garland Allen, Louisville, 6-3, 6-1.

Enterprise Wins In Yacht Racing

MATTAPOISETT, Mass., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The yacht Enterprise today won the race between the four candidates competing for the honor of defending the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V. The Enterprise was second, Yankee third and Whirlwind fourth.

Association, Coast and International Loops Form 'Triple Entente'

MINORS OPPOSE BOYCOTT MOVE WITH ALLIANCE

Plans Laid To Ignore Ultimatum Await Other Developments.

By Paul Mickelson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(P)—Confronted with a boycott threat by the major leagues over the draft question, representatives of the American association, Pacific Coast and International leagues today began formation of a "triple entente" to protect their interests.

A committee of three, headed by Walter E. Hapgood, general manager of the Montreal club of the International league, was appointed to make recommendations for a unified front in the draft and other problems with the minor league clubs and to make a report at a special conference at Montreal during the first week in December when the National Association meets and when the major league boycott becomes effective.

Other members of the committee were Charles Graham, vice president of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league, and Oscar J. Smith, president of the Toledo club of the American association.

"CLOSE HARMONY."

"It was decided that it was to the interest of the three Class AA leagues to work in closer harmony and to better protect their interests by a united front," Chairman Hapgood said. The three leagues, Hapgood said, have decided to ignore the ultimatum of the majors that they submit to some acceptable draft agreement or be boycotted on and after December 1, 1930.

"We intend to stick to the agreement we made in Kansas City in 1921 in which it was agreed that no league not in sympathy with the draft was compelled to accept it," he said. "If the major leagues want to sever relations with us over the draft, why can't we help it. We plan to ignore the ultimatum if that is what it amounts to. That question, however, was not

Bainbridge Victor In County Circuit

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Aug. 5.—Bainbridge defeated Valdosta, 9 to 1, this afternoon in a feature game of the Six-County Baseball league. The locals will play the visitors in Valdosta Thursday afternoon. Only five more games remain to be played in the league schedule.

taken up today. The leagues have decided that issue separately."

THE PROSPECT.

If the majors carry out their threat, no business relations whatsoever will exist between them and the "Big Three" of the minors after December 1. No players would be purchased and none sold or traded. Such an estrangement would cause some hardship on the major league clubs which own "farms" in either of the three leagues but the best prospects on such farms probably would be placed on option in draft leagues until they were ready for major league baseball or until peace was established.

President Ernest Barnard of the American league said he believed the difficulty would be ironed out satisfactorily by December 1 but that the majors were determined the draft principle he accepted.

In addition to the "Big Three," the Western and Three-Eye leagues have been exempt from the draft since the Kansas City agreement. They were expected to ignore the threat also.

Wear Favors Davis Cup
Competition Every
Two Years.

By Ted Vosburgh,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(P)—After three years of intensive training, campaigning and unsuccessful challenging for the Davis Cup, American tennis officials indicated today that drastic changes in policy are under consideration.

Louis B. Bailey, of New York, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, made it clear that if he has his way next year's quest for the cup will be undertaken without the long months of arduous preparation now involved. His views were given as he stood on the pier awaiting the arrival of the American team which returned from France empty handed.

Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the Davis Cup committee, said that when at last the United States succeeds in recovering the trophy he favors holding the competition every two years instead of annually.

Wear made it clear that no such suggestion would be considered until the cup has been regained as the French campaigned cheerfully year after year before they finally attained their goal and now are entitled to defend it on the same basis.

Wear, however, expressed confidence that the United States would recapture the cup "in a couple of years."

He declared that when that happens he believes it will be up to the United States to place the competition on a biennial basis as "this Davis Cup thing has grown too big for us."

"When Mr. Davis donated the trophy he never imagined that there would be 32 nations competing for it," he pointed out.

Both Wear and Bailey believe the United States must depend largely upon her young players—those still in their teens—to regain the cup.

Colonel Nuttman To Be Honored At Reception

PORT M'PHERSON, Ga., Aug. 5. One of the most anticipated affairs of the month is the reception to be given at the Fort McPherson Officers' Club Friday, August 22, in honor of Colonel Louis H. Nuttman, who is the commanding officer of the twenty-second infantry. Colonel Nuttman arrived this month from San Francisco to assume command of the regiment. The reception in his honor will be a brilliant affair attended by the military set and a number of Atlantans. Sport lovers of the post are interested in the newly-completed boxing ring which is located near the swimming pool beyond the west end of the parade ground. The committee has arranged a program of amateur boxing to take place at the ring August 12. Two charming visitors, Mrs. Grace Minton and Miss Martha Minton, of Portsmouth, Va., will be honored Wednesday at a luncheon given by their hostess, Mrs. William Dashiell, at her home, "Maplewood," on Peachtree road. Bridge will be played during the morning hours followed by a perfectly appointed luncheon. Covers will be placed for sixteen. The reception and hop given by the Fort McPherson Officers' Club at their clubrooms Tuesday evening was an enjoyable affair attended by 200 members of civilian and military social circles. The reserve officers on duty at the post were the inspiration for the entertainment, and Mrs. Clyde Abraham made a gracious hostess for the club. The rooms were decorated with ferns and pot plants. The wide mantel was graced with a wicker basket holding gladioli in tones of crimson flanked by slender tapers, while the punch table was centered with the same stately flowers and pale yellow tapers burned at intervals. The guests were presented to the receiving line by Lieutenant Charles Landon. Those in the line were Brigadier General George H. Estes and Mrs. Estes, Colonel Louis H. Nuttman, Lieutenant Colonel D. M. Cheston and Mrs. Cheston, Colonel Warren Lott, who is the commanding officer of the 25th infantry, and Colonel James A. Fort, of Americus, who is in command of the corps area service command of Fort Benning, Ga.

FOLLOW THE CROWDS TO RICH'S!

We saw him all over the building that day... from Penelope Penn to the Post Office... from Shipping Room to Book Shop... attentively piloted by a Most Important Executive. So when we found ourselves alone with him on the elevator we couldn't resist introducing ourselves... hoping that the confidence would be returned. It was.

He was... it happened... making a national survey of public utilities and was spending one week in Atlanta. One entire morning had been devoted to us. He had looked like the Melancholy Dane throughout the conversation. Suddenly he caught a glimpse of a card on the elevator and his eyes danced merrily.

"A Southern Institution?" he queried. "I've got a better line for you. Besides all of the usual services you offer club-room to the Junior Red Cross... the Junior Music Club... bridge clubs... music teachers' private recitals... and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Typographical Union... among other social and civic organizations.

"Why," he suggested as he raised his hat in parting, "don't you say that RICH'S IS A CLEARING HOUSE FOR ATLANTA ACTIVITIES!"

"Many thanks," we shouted through the closing door. "We are too modest... but may we quote you?"

This is the answer!

Peacock-Castleberry Wedding Solemnized at Home Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Julia Estelle Peacock and Emmett Wright Castleberry, of Atlanta, formerly of Lumpkin, was solemnized Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Peacock, in Adair Park. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. P. McGee, Jr., of the Capitol View Presbyterian church. Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Helen Schaid, organist, of West End Baptist church, and Mrs. Luther P. Harper, contralto, who sang "At Dawning" and "Un-til." During the ceremony "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms" was played softly.

Palms flanked the improvised altar at the end of the living room and on either side were seven-branched candelabra holding unshaded tapers and placed in the center was a tall floor basket of white gladioli, an aisle being formed by ribbons drawn from a star to a draped arch at the opposite end of the room. The chandeliers and doorways were festooned with asparagus fern.

Bridal Party

The bride was attended by Miss Ruby Castleberry, sister of the bridegroom. Her frock was of pink chiffon with fitted waist and long crinoline skirt of uneven hemline. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, showered with swansonia, tied with pink ribbon. William Guy Crowley was best man and the groomsmen were W. L. Peacock and R. H. Peacock. Master Robert Carter, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. He wore a suit of white satin, bearing the ring on a gold chain. The little flower girl, Miss Martha Louise McDaniel, niece of the bride, dressed in baby blue crepe de chine, scattered rose petals from a basket of pastel-shaded flowers.

The bride wore a wedding gown

Isabella M. Alden Passes at Palo Alto

PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Isabella M. Alden, 88, author of more than 120 books and known to the public as "Pansy," died here today. She had been ill for some time.

Mrs. Alden had been ill since 1926 when she was injured in an automobile accident and suffered a fractured hip in a fall.

Her condition had been serious for the last month, she died from complications and old age.

During the last four years she had worked on her last book, "Memories of Yesterday," which will be published soon.

Funeral arrangements had not been made.

Cities May Levy Taxes, Florida Judge Rules

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The state supreme court today upheld the right of municipalities to levy general taxes on all property in the municipality to pay special assessment bonds outstanding against it.

The case was that of A. M. Klemm vs. W. M. Davis, and other city officials of the city of Clermont. The city ad valorem tax on all property to pay principal and interest on special assessment bonds outstanding against it was attacked on the ground that it was double taxation on property which had paid a special assessment tax.

The court reversed the decision of the circuit court of Lake county and ruled in favor of the city of Clermont.

KINGSFORD-SMITH PROGRESSING WELL

VERRE, Holland, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Hendrik Willem Vag Loon, Dutch-American author who was host to Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian trans-oceanic aviator, when he was taken ill, said today that his friend was resting well after an operation last night for acute appendicitis.

The author visited the hospital at Middleburg this forenoon, declaring afterward: "The patient is resting perfectly happy. There are no complications and normal convalescence may be expected. The only complication which can be foreseen is possibility of a civil war breaking out in the hospital over who will have the privilege of taking care of him."

It was learned that the operation revealed that the appendix had been inflamed severely for some little time but that the aviator had overestimated it as anything serious, attributing pains to slight digestive trouble. In view of his exhausted condition his recovery was expected to be rapid.

Kingsford-Smith was said at the hospital to have passed a good night.

Joseph Stalin Foe Loses Soviet Post

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Nikolai Uglanov, commissar of labor and member of the right wing opposition who confessed the error of his ways before the communist congress July 2, today was relieved of his post.

His successor is Anton Teikhan, who has been chairman of the Builders' Trade Union.

When Uglanov recanted before the party's convention delegates from all over the Soviet Union booed at his subject apologies. He surrendered unconditionally to the policies of Joseph Stalin, head of the communist party, the "strong man" of the Soviet government.

Predictions were made at the time that he would not remain in office despite his apologies.

American Freighter Sinks Swedish Ship

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The American freighter Chickasaw, owned by the Moore McCormack Company, collided early today with the Swedish freighter Femern, cutting the Femern in two. Four men were reported missing.

The blow slashed the Swedish freighter vessel into two parts, the forepart going to the bottom.

The Chickasaw, slightly damaged, was expected to arrive here this afternoon.

The Chickasaw, of 3,023 tons, left New York July 24 for Copenhagen, Stockholm and Leningrad.

The Swedish steamer Femern is listed in the American shipping records as of 387 net tons, built in 1890 at Oslo, owned by Abgata. No Femern is noted in any available shipping register.

The princess took place in the archbishop's palace in the presence of Prince Leopold, her husband.

The princess, who belongs to the Swedish royal family, married Prince Leopold, Duke of Brabant and heir to the Belgian throne in Stockholm on November 4, 1926.

Miss Dorothy Barbre Weds Mr. Benton

Mrs. A. C. Barbre announces the marriage of her daughter, Dorothy, to Mr. Andrew Benton, the wedding having taken place Saturday, July 26, in the church of the Good Shepherd in Norfolk, Va. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Rufin Jones, pastor of the church.

The bride wore a becoming ensemble of dark blue crepe and her hat matched her costume. A bouquet of Claudia Perret roses was worn on her shoulder. Mrs. Benton is a beautiful young woman of the blond type, and is the only daughter of Mrs. Barbre.

The bride received her education at Commercial High school.

Mr. Benton is a son of Mrs. Hunter Benton and is associated with J. W. Patterson Commission Company, of Atlanta. The couple will be married at 10 o'clock on their wedding trip, and will reside on Parkway drive.

Dog Escapes Sentence To Death by Moving

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—(UN)—"Jiggers," 2-year-old fox terrier, may continue to frisk about enjoying life as long as he stays out of New Jersey, according to Recorder Joseph Altman ruled Monday.

The wire-haired dog was sentenced to death last week for biting a woman, but when authorities called at the home of his owner, Mrs. Dora Gaultier, they found that she and the dog had fled to New York.

The dog was a talk of tradition and such things, but the recorder finally admitted there was nothing the state of New Jersey could do about it unless "Jiggers" were foolish enough to come back.

Negro Church Stands Homeless in Road

GLENCOE, Ill., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The negro Baptist church of Glencoe is being moved, nobody knows where. The church has been standing on property owned by the Glencoe Park commission. Recently the commission ordered the building moved to another park property and the structure was put on rollers and started on its way.

Before it arrived, however, Samuel H. Baker, who lives next door to the proposed new church location, filed an objection in court and obtained an injunction.

Today the church was still out in the street all jacked up but with no place to go.

SPARK FROM PIPE STARTS FATAL FIRE

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 5.—(AP)—A spark from a pipe which he was smoking when he went to sleep was blamed today for the deaths of Joseph Davis, 58, and his wife, Allie, 53, whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of a bed in the ruins of their home at Kiler, 30 miles east of here.

The explanation given by Coroner Joseph B. Finan was reached after he and other officials investigated rumors of foul play. No inquest will be held.

Miss Schwarz and Mr. Bates Are Wed at Lutheran Church

The wedding of Miss Mamie Schwarz and Robert D. Bates was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at the Lutheran church of the Redeemer in the presence of a gathering of friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed by Chaplain J. O. Ensrud, of Fort McPherson. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, and floor baskets of white gladioli, palms, and candelabra were placed on either side of the altar.

The maid of honor, Miss Grace Woolley, was gowned in pink organdie, made old-fashioned style, and she carried a colonial bouquet of pastel-shaded flowers. The bridesmaids, Miss Lula Bates and Mrs. Rose Smith, sisters of the groom, and Miss Anne Courney and Mrs. Carl Borg, were green and orchid organdie dresses, made old-fashioned style with long, flowing skirts. They carried old-fashioned bouquets of pastel-shaded flowers.

The two little flower girls, Mary Anne Rose and Margaret Anderson, wore old-fashioned organdie dresses with tiny ruffles made in the waist line, and carried miniature colonial bouquets. Little Miss Anderson is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred W. Anderson, and the bride was a flower girl in the wedding of Dr. and Mrs. Anderson in 1919.

The groomsmen were F. F. Dowdle, Harry McDaniel, Paul Roper and Rex Smith. The bride entered with her brother, Phillip Schwarz, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Carl Borg.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of eggshell satin, made on long lines, princess style, the skirt falling in graceful folds. The bride is a beautiful brunette, and her beauty was enhanced by the softness of her pale veil, which was made cap effect around her face, and caught on the sides by tiny orange blossoms. She carried a bride's bouquet of Easter lilies.

Mrs. Bertha Schwarz, mother of the bride, was gowned in black chiffon and wore a shoulder corsage of roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. R. D. Bates, wore blue georgette, and a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Miami, Fla., sister of the bride, wore orchid chiffon and her corsage was of roses and valley lilies. Mrs. P. J. Schwarz, sister of the bride, wore yellow chiffon, and her corsage was of roses. Mrs. W. H. Woolley wore black georgette with a corsage of roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bates left for a wedding trip to North Carolina and upon their return they will make their home at 130 Second avenue in East Lake.

NINE PERSONS INJURED WHEN TRUCK HITS AUTO

Two women were injured and six girls and one boy were severely shaken Tuesday morning when an automobile driven by Mrs. A. H. Herring, in which the Gordon school volleyball team was riding, was struck, at Glenn and Pulliam streets by a heavy provision truck driven by W. H. Fulton, against whom reckless driving charges were preferred by investigating policemen.

With Mrs. Herring and the team were Mrs. L. C. Phillips, volleyball director, and Jack Cobb, of 140 Howard street. Both Mrs. Herring and Mrs. Phillips were severely injured, requiring medical attention at the Atlanta hospital, to which they were taken after the accident. Mrs. Herring suffered a badly crushed arm while Mrs. Phillips' neck was injured. The members of the team were not injured. They were: Gladys Herring, 12; Lien Roberts, 12; Gordon avenue, Kirkwood; Sarah Greer, 16, of a Newport street address; Lillian Tucker, 15, 234 Hampton street; Dorothy Wigley, 16, 229 Warren street; Ruby Cameron, 16, 237 Warren street, and young Cobb, who was accompanying the team.

The accident occurred when the Herring car, traveling east on Glenn street, was struck at a "blind" corner on Pulliam, according to witnesses. The passenger vehicle was overturned and virtually demolished, while the truck also was badly damaged. Traffic in the neighborhood was tied up for upwards of an hour.

Every detail is of the finest. Strong grosgrain ribbons attach the pins. Tabs for pinning are made of firm washable satin. These tabs are so attached that body movements will not affect the fit of belt or pad.

The Kotex apron—85c

You need the absolute security of a sanitary apron—you like to keep your skirts immaculate and free from wrinkles. But you've wanted a sanitary apron that will not grow sticky and gummy.

The new Kotex apron is finely and firmly made. It's perfectly washable, of course. Buy it where you buy Kotex—at any drug, dry goods or department store.

JIM THE CONQUEROR

By PETER B. KYNE

Thirty-Ninth Installment.

"I always knew you were a thoroughbred," he gulped finally. "Lie here and do not move. This is a private fight and you haven't been invited. I've got to keep moving. I've run miles from one side of this corral to the other, firing through knot-holes and gaps in the boards. If I stay still they'll locate me and I can't afford that—now!"

He rolled away like a tumbleweed. A bullet crashed through the fence and struck where he had been lying a second before. And then Roberta fainted.

Roberta came to in Don Jaime's arms beside the water-hole.

"Well, Jimmy," she murmured presently.

"We're back in the sheep business again," he assured her solemnly.

A silence. Then: "Any casualties, Jimmy?"

"Yes. Three dead horses and two wounded. Hobart's pinked, but nothing worse than what he's been used to. Adolfo de Haro, one of my riders, is dead, and Lambert, O'Grady and Martinez Trujillo are badly hit, but I do not think they will die. Julio Ortiz has lost a little finger. Dingle and nine of his men are dead to date and the final returns from the river should make the affair unanimous. Fraser, Juan Espinosa and Julio Ortiz are following them. They took our mounts and now I'll have to get busy, load our wounded on Dingle's chuck wagon and go home."

"Was that his chuck wagon in the corral?"

"Well, it used to be your Uncle Tom's, so I presume it's yours now. Dingle got here first, ran his chuck outfit into the old branding corral to camp for the night and turned his mules loose there. Then he waited to see what might turn up before dark. I turned up—unexpectedly—rode wide around the herders, approached the corral from the rear and had opened the gate and entered before either side discovered I was trapped. They couldn't see me clearly, but through the chinks in the corral boarding they could see something moving against the light. At that they couldn't be sure that something was me, my horse, or their mules, and they didn't want to hit the mules, so they were careful."

"It was close work, and after I'd located all the chinks in the boards I made them keep their heads down. Then when the firing started out on the 'flat, and they saw Ken's men, led by you, making a pistol charge on the men with the sheep, Dingle got cold feet. You rode through quite a barrage, sweetheart, but once you'd topped the corral they figured I had reinforcements, so they ran for their horses and rode south. That is, some of them did. I climbed upon the wagon seat and fanned their rear; as they fled down the south side of the valley they bumped into Ken and Julio, who emptied two saddles each. Do you know, darling, that you have a pistol bullet through the muscles of your back, rather well on the right side? Nothing fatal, but you'll sleep on your left side for a month!"

"I'm a fool," Roberta murmured weakly.

"Yes, but a gallant little fool."

"Are you hurt, Jimmy?"

"Not a scratch."

She raised her left arm and curled it around his neck; he lowered his face until his cheek touched hers.

"You're such a terrible man," she whispered. "Oh, such a terrible man!"

"But you love me, just the same?" "Yes, but I wouldn't have told you—I'd have died first. It's all due to Ken Hobart. He told me—"

"Hush, sweetheart. He's confessed. He told you a few of the most wonderful lies on record, and when he found you'd been hit he cried like a baby. Swore that if you didn't kill him first—provided I didn't kill him first—He lifted her to a sitting position."

"There's old Cupid Hobart sitting over yonder. Look at him. He's still blubbering."

The ex-ranger got up and limped painfully over to her, knelt and took her hand. "You're a grand liar," she murmured, "and a grand fighter, and a grand friend—and now I'm going to decorate you, Ken Hobart—on the field of battle."

"Kiss her, fool," Don Jaime roared. "And you can kiss her again the day we're married. That's the privilege of the best man, but after that, believe me, partner, she's not going to give away any more samples to hard-boiled old waddies like you."

So the embarrassed wretch obeyed orders, and Roberta fainted again. Hobart almost moaned.

"Fan her and mop her face with this wet bandanna," Don Jaime commanded. He searched in the chuck wagon for the small first-aid kit and applied first aid in a workmanlike manner. Thenceforth he attended to his wounded men and when that task was done he loaded his casualties into the wagon.

"Home, James," he called cheerily to an imaginary chauffeur, climbed up onto the seat and gathered the reins. He peered down at Roberta's face, upturned to him from the wagon bed.

"You'd have to live a few lifetimes in Westchester county, New York, before you'd get your teeth into life as deeply as you have in the past hour and a half," he assured her cheerfully. "Whose spunky old sweetheart are you?"

"Yours," said Roberta wearily. "Giddap," yelled Don Jaime, and the wagon rolled away up the valley into a long draw that wound between the hills and eventually led them out to where the car waited. Here he transferred his wounded, Lambert, O'Grady and Martinez Trujillo on the rear seat, with Ken Hobart on the front seat. Lastly he lifted Roberta up into Hobart's arms, after which he braked the chuck wagon, unhitched the mules to the wheels.

Muscogee Grand Jury Warned Against 'Glutting' Docket

"Over-Vigilance of Officers" Is Stressed by Judge McLaughlin in Charge.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Muscogee county grand jury was at work Tuesday under instructions from Judge C. Frank McLaughlin not to "glut the court docket with cases made through overvigilance of officers."

"We are facing strenuous times," the judge said in his charge to the grand jury yesterday. "There is no use of just going through the graveyard whistling and attempting to deny the fact."

"One of the most dangerous things confronting the American people is the trend toward concentration of wealth and power."

Conditions were reflected in the courts by increase of crime, he said, and urged the jury to study each case thoroughly "and if evidence shows a bill of indictment is not warranted, no bill should be returned."

He said many officers were vigilant in enforcement of the laws, "which is their duty, but one of the duties of the grand jury is to see that court dockets are not glutted with cases made through overvigilance," said Judge McLaughlin.

The jury indicted W. K. Johnson, Jr., federal prohibition agent, on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Ray Rodgers, 20, Rodgers was slain July 25.

VOTING LIST REVISED IN TERRELL COUNTY

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 5.—The jury commissioners of Terrell county, appointed by Judge M. J. Neenan to purge the list of voters, met to revise the list. They expect to complete the work Wednesday and will file with the clerk the names of those who are eligible to take part in the coming state primary.

It is probable that the list of registered voters will be somewhat reduced, due to non-return or non-payment of taxes. This seems to be the general condition in all counties where the law is being observed.

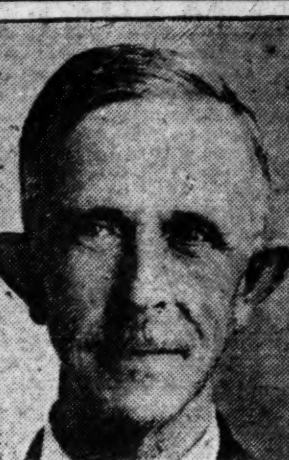

Those on the board are W. M. Davis, W. E. Goodson, W. W. Massey, M. G. Hill, W. B. Davis and Duke Marshall.

SOUTH GEORGIA COW QUALIFIES FOR AWARD

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 5.—Suitsa Raleigh's Molly, 75002, a member of the herd at J. C. Hunt's Suitsa Dairy farm, has qualified for the Register of Merit of the American Jersey Cattle Club. Molly is a purebred Jersey and her official test commenced when she was three years and four months old. The record shows 505.50 pounds of butterfat and 10,100 pounds of milk in 365 days.

The sire of Molly is Suitsa Fancy Raleigh and her dam is Signa Rockwell of P. H. P.

Awards Son Degree

P. A. Johnson, of Atlanta, oldest living past master of Oostanula lodge, of Rome, Tuesday night raised his son to the sublime degree of Master Mason at a joint meeting of Cherokee and Oostanula lodges.

BOLL WEEVIL MENACES TERRELL COTTON CROP

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 5.—Boll weevil infestation in Terrell county is said to be greatly on the increase since the state Tuesday night. The extent, however, has not been estimated.

Much cotton is now open and picking has been begun. Since the first of the new crop cotton in the county has been ginned it is thought that little cotton will be ginned before the 10th of the month, as most growers will hold their cotton and allow it to dry out before having it ginned.

The farmers are being cautioned to allow their cotton to become as dry as possible, that it may not be gin cut. While the county's yield will probably surpass last year's figures by a wide margin, it is not thought that the yield will near approach the estimate made some weeks ago.

Following action of the grand jury in Columbus, Johnston came here and was held at the county jail.

The order of transfer was signed by Judge Deaver this morning. It means that the prohibition agent will be defended at trial by Mr. Bootle and his staff. The prosecution will be conducted by the solicitor of the circuit court in Muscogee county.

JOINT MEETING HELD BY MASONS IN ROME

ROME, Ga., Aug. 5.—A joint communication of the two Rome lodges was held Tuesday night at a meeting of Rome and Floyd county Masons.

At 8 o'clock a lodge of Master Masons was opened. Charles J. Ogles, worshipful master of the Floyd County Association and custodian of the uniform work for this district, presided over the assembly to order, invited H. P. Simmons and Charles L. Hampton, worshipful masters of Cherokee and Oostanula lodges, to the east, then called the following past masters of Oostanula lodge to the station to which they were asked to fill during the opening ceremonies.

Those present were: Carey J. King, S. W. W. J. Griffin, J. Ward, G. C. Byars, treasurer; G. T. Ward, secretary; Wyatt H. Foster, S. D.; P. A. Johnson, J. D.; L. E. McDaniel, S. S.; W. E. Wimberly, S. S.; John H. Gandy, chaplain; W. J. Treadaway, tiller.

Father Raises Son

Immediately after the lodge was opened by these "old-timers" the officers' stations were filled by past masters of the two Rome lodges who exemplified the degree of Master Mason on three candidates, one of whom is the son of F. A. Johnson, Mr. Johnson is the oldest living past master of Oostanula lodge.

The lodge added much interest to the meeting since the son was "raised" by his father. Another unusual event was that the young man, Johnson, when he was a child, had been brought to the lodge and was "raised" by the lodge.

Mr. Johnson's son is being worked here as a courtesy candidate of an Atlanta lodge and to fill the wish that he make a Master Mason in his father's lodge.

Degree Staff

The following past masters of Cherokee and Oostanula lodges occupied the chairs when the degree work began:

O. R. Minnis, W. M.; J. W. Whitehead, S. W.; W. E. Turner, J. W.; W. B. J. Floyd, S. D.; W. A. Johnson, J. D.; J. C. Pinson, S. S.; S. S. Frank Gentry, J. S.; W. C. Yarbrough, chaplain.

Several other past masters and members of the two lodges, assisted in the degree work, including: O. L. Dempsey, D. W. Holland, H. B. Hammond, Dewey Woolstein, Robert H. Powers, W. S. O'Beck, H. O'Beck, A. Pritchett, Milton Tippin, Mose Esserman, Eugene Smith and T. W. McAdams.

Paul Brown was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Cotton Nets 18 Cents Per Pound at Cochran

COCHRAN, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—After a delay of ten days on account of rain, cotton is being marketed here. The first three bales brought 18 cents a pound at local warehouses, which is above the market price.

COLUMBUS DRY CASE SHIFTED TO S. COURT

Judge Deaver Signs Transfer Order at Macon; Johnston Seeks Bail.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—W. K. Johnston, Jr., federal prohibition agent who was indicted here yesterday on charges of murder for the slaying of Ray Rodgers, 20, and whose case was transferred to federal court today, left here Tuesday afternoon for Macon to apply for bail.

He was accompanied by Samuel Purvis, United States marshal for the middle district of Georgia. Johnston was brought to the federal court by Marshal Purvis, and surrendered to Sheriff C. C. Layfield. Later he was returned to custody of Marshal Purvis, together with all records of the case.

Judge Deaver signed an order Tuesday transferring the case to federal court, after Solicitor-General A. Jones Perryman had set the case for hearing in superior court next Wednesday.

TRIAL PROBABLY NEXT MONTH

MACON, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Trial of W. K. Johnston, Jr., federal prohibition agent, on charges of murder in connection with the death of Ray Rodgers, youthful Columbus (Ga.) bootlegger, on the night of July 25, probably will be held early next month in the Columbus division of the middle district of Georgia, it was announced today by United States Attorney W. A. Bootle.

Mr. Bootle's announcement came following transfer of the case from the Muscogee superior court to the United States district court, by order of Federal Judge Bascom S. Johnston was indicted by the Muscogee county grand jury after he had been acquitted of the murder at the preliminary hearing several days ago there.

Following action of the grand jury in Columbus, Johnston came here and was held at the county jail.

The order of transfer was signed by Judge Deaver this morning. It means that the prohibition agent will be defended at trial by Mr. Bootle and his staff. The prosecution will be conducted by the solicitor of the circuit court in Muscogee county.

PYRE VICTIM'S IDENTITY REMAINS UNREVEALED

$1,000 Reward Asked of County to Aid Solution of Mystery.

LOGANVILLE, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Authorities investigating the slaying of an unidentified man near here announced that the Walton county board of commissioners would be asked to offer a $1,000 reward for solution of the mystery.

The man was slain in the badland of Miller bottoms two miles west of here Saturday and the body was burned in an abandoned farmhouse. The only clues to the victim's identity were a lock of sandy hair found on a barbed-wire fence in the path between the swamp and the house, and a mud-covered handkerchief.

Sheriff Mart Riley and his chief deputy, L. C. Schumate, held to the theory that the man was an Atlanta bootlegger and slain in a liquor feud. They said they believed he was killed in the swamp and his body dragged to the farmhouse, which was set afire.

The body was found early Sunday morning in ruins of the house. It was buried the same day. The body was charred so badly that identity could not be determined.

A lock of sandy hair was found on a barbed-wire fence in the path between the swamp and the house, and a mud-covered handkerchief.

Sheriff Riley recalled that several years ago an automobile theft ring operated in the bottoms, and that it was broken up and some of its members sent to prison. He said it was possible that the slaying might be traced to trouble which developed in the ring when its members were arrested.

He said, however, that the theory of the liquor feud sounded plausible. "We have known for some time that bootleggers were running liquor from here to Tallahassee, and were making efforts to break up their activities with varying success. However, there still are many still in the bottoms."

Sheriff Riley also believed that five or six men were in the execution squad.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Reports of rains or showers in the south and Arkansas were reflected by liquidation and rising price by recent buyers in cotton here today. A question as to the adequacy of the rainfall and the rather more bullish private crop figures slowed up the decline during the middle session, but offerings increased again and the lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading when new October contracts sold at 12.62, or 30 points net lower. They closed at 12.64, with the general market closing largely steady at net declines of 21 to 30 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 10 points in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and private reports of showers in the southwest. The initial offerings were quickly absorbed by further covering, and there was some commission house buying, but the demand was less active following the advance in the market. The market worked off to net declines of some 18 to 23 points before the end of the morning.

Rallies of some extent followed on private reports that there had been nothing more than light scattering showers in Texas, but the detailed weather reports of the middle section and the market worked off to net declines of some 18 to 23 points before the end of the morning.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Makes Gain of 8 Points

The market's leadership on the rally was provided by United States Steel, which was bid up to 170-1/4, the highest price in two months before its strength was expended. It dropped 2 points from the top but was off only a fraction at the close. Radio, Standard Oil, New Jersey, and General Motors were also well supported, although all showed small net losses.

Early estimates of steel operations showed a small improvement in output. Some independent companies were said to be working on a basis almost 1 per cent higher than last week, while United States Steel showed higher. Dow Jones placed the average for the industry at 58 per cent capacity against 57-1/2 per cent in the past two weeks.

The morning sprint in share prices embraced the merchandising, chemical, rail, motor and motor accessory groups. The latter group was particularly active, with shares of points in Allied Chemical, Columbian Carbon, American Tobacco, Johnson & Johnson, Eastman Kodak, Foster Wheeler, R. H. Macy, Vanadium, Auburn Auto, Union Pacific, St. Louis & San Francisco, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line. Most of these gains, however, were surrendered later.

Warner Brothers Pictures rallied 2 points on covering prompted by a rumor of a new production. J. L. Raskob was to be made chairman of the board, but lost its rise. American Telephone was heavy all day, losing 1/2 point, but ending with a gain of 1/4 point on Monday's 6-point advance.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube was a late feature, rallying several points on a report of a new production. J. L. Raskob was to be made chairman of the board, but lost its rise. American Telephone was heavy all day, losing 1/2 point, but ending with a gain of 1/4 point on Monday's 6-point advance.

Part of the heaviness that developed during the latter hours of today's trading appeared to be based on a realization that the situation in corn and wheat belts may be more serious than Wall Street had been inclined to believe. Some of the wheat and corn shares were the firmest, and can issues, the latter yielding on prospects of a reduced crop. International Harvester, for example, declined 1/4 point. Case, 2 American Can 1-4
